GUESSES MADE AT C.P.R. PLANS

Mr. Whyte's Trip to the Coast Attracts Attention in Winnipeg

MAKES TOUR TO SKAGWAY

Alliance With Union Pacific in Seattle Entrance Project

Winnipeg, July 20.—William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R., is leaving for Skagway, probably tonight, and will be away nearly three weeks. He will be accompanied by three or four other gentlemen, and the party will sail on the Princess Beatrice from Vancouver, July 27, arriving at Skagway on the 31st. They will probably return on the same trip. Skagway is most northerly point reached by the C.P.R. system, either by boat or rail.

At the C.P.R. offices this afternoon it was impossible to ascertain whether this will be merely a routine inspection trip, or whether there is some special significance attached to the visit. Prince Rupert is about half way between Vancouver and Skagway and it is stated that the party of C. P. R. officials may stop off there and communicate with the officials of the G.T.P.

A despatch from Portland, Oregon, states that the Union Pacific and Canadian Pacific have formed a holding corporation and taken over the property of the Bellingham Bay and British Columbia Railway company, with a twofold object of giving the Harriman lines an entrance into Vancouver, and, secondly, providing an arrangement by which the C.P.R. may gain access to Seattle, and it may be some connection with this which is taking the second vice president west.

Deliberate Suicide

New York, July 20.—Shortly after retiring last night, Joseph Harris, Jr., proprietor of a cafe at Keyport, N. J., arose and dressed himself with the greatest care, descended to the store and shot himself dead. His wife found the body today. No cause is assigned for the suicide.

Bathers Drowned

Lakefield, Ont., July 20.—Joseph Metcalf, an employee of the Cavendish Lumber company was drowned yesterday while bathing.

Toronto, July 20.—M. Poly, aged 25 years, an American, was drowned on Saturday night while bathing in the Don river.

Ten Lives Lost.

Manilla July 18.—Forty more passengers from the launch San Gabriel, which foundered two days ago while on its way from Manilla to Corregidor Island, were landed here today by the steamer Buena Suerte. They were picked up by the steamer shortly after the launch went down. The launch passengers who lost their lives are now estimated at ten, mostly women who refused to leave the wreck.

English Language in Japan.

San Francisco, July 20.—English will be the commercial language of Japan within a few years if the predictions made today by E. A. Phillips, English instructor of the Japanese training ship Taisei Maru, which is in this port, comes true. Phillips says the English language is being rapidly adopted in Japan, and is now included in the courses of all the principal universities and secondary schools there.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine Breaks Down Near Bellingham and Passengers Are Badly Injured

Bellingham, Wash., July 20.—A heavy automobile coming in from Lynden last night was wrecked, and its fifteen passengers injured. The seriously injured are: Judge J. R. Crites, internal injuries, probably fatal; Rev. Joseph B. Williams, collar-bone and ribs broken, internal injuries, probably fatal, both are of this city.

A tire stripping from one of the wheels was thrust into the steering gear, causing the machine to dash squarely across the road and turn a summersault over a 12-foot embankment.

ROJESTVENSKY DEAD

Unfortunate Russian Admiral Succumbs to Heart Trouble Caused By Wounds

Badenauheim, Germany, July 20.—Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky, who commanded the ill-fated Russian fleet which was annihilated by the Japanese in the sea of Japan in May, 1905, died here last night from heart trouble.

It is believed that the heart affection resulted from injuries received by Admiral Rojestvensky in the battle of the sea of Japan.

EMBARGO REMAINS

Announcement That Imperial Government Does Not Propose to Legislate For Its Removal

London, July 20.—Sir Edward Strachey, member of parliament for the South division of Somerset, and representative of the Board of Agriculture in the House of Commons, dashed the hopes of those who had advocated the importation of Canadian cattle, by announcing this afternoon that the government had no present intention of proposing legislation removing the prohibition of such importations.

STEAMPIPE BURSTS ON U.S.S. KEARSARGE

Five Men of Fire Room Crew Scalded—Injuries Not Serious

Honolulu, July 20.—By the bursting of a steampipe on the forward starboard boiler of the United States battleship Kearsarge, of the Atlantic fleet, five of the fire-room crew were injured. The accident occurred late Saturday, but the news did not become generally known until this morning. The Kearsarge being anchored in the harbor, distant from the shore. Fires were drawn after the accident, and the steam plant was disabled for nine hours.

The injured are doing well, although all are suffering from burns caused by the scalding steam. None will be seriously injured.

The names of the worst injured are: Wilson, a water tender; Watson, second-class fireman, and Pomplum, a coal passer. Their injuries are now declared to be superficial.

The accident to the Kearsarge will not interfere with her sailing with the fleet on Wednesday. Repairs are now being made and will be completed in time to allow her to go with the others.

SHAH LOSES GROUND IN NORTHERN PERSIA

Forces Entirely Driven Out of Tabriz—Will Send Reinforcements

St. Petersburg, July 20.—A despatch received by the Novoe Vremya from Tabriz by courier post to Juffa affirms that the Shah's cause in northern Persia is lost. The article says that arms and ammunition abandoned by Rachein Kahn, chief of the troops, during his flight from Tabriz to the suburban plantations, passed into the hands of the revolutionists, who are now in full possession of the city.

London, July 20.—A late despatch to the Times from Tabriz, dated July 19th, says:

"The town is now entirely in the hands of revolutionists with the exception of one quarter. The withdrawal of Rachein Khan's horsemen from the occupation of the town is heralded as the failure of the Shah's endeavor to assert royalist supremacy. The royal infantry regiment sent from Teheran to this place to restore order left their rifles and uniforms here and departed en masse to their homes. Rachein Khan's chief executioner was done to death yesterday in the public streets.

The leaders of the people on Saturday assembled in conclave in the mosque and determined to attack the Mujtahid and royalist quarter and drive out the clerical influence by force, but the Russian consul intervened and promised to telegraph the Shah and obtain amnesty and order to disperse the Mujtahid assembly. No answer being received the feeling ran high. The consul was accused of duplicity and proclamations were posted calling on the people to act on their own initiative. Later in the day it was reported that the Shah had replied to the Russian consul, and it may be that order can be established out of the present chaos. Rioting and street fighting, however, continue, and individual royalists are murdered wherever they are discovered.

The Times correspondent at Teheran says that the Shah is still strengthening his camp at Baghshah in the suburbs. It is reported here that the Nationalists have been victorious in Tabriz, and that Rachein Khan has fled from that city. The Shah is hurrying reinforcements with orders to destroy the Nationalists at all costs.

LONG SESSION COMES TO CLOSE

Members of Parliament Are Excused From Further Attendance

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

Government Gives Itself Credit For Passing Some Useful Legislation

Ottawa, July 20.—Parliament was prorogued today, little of the usual ceremonial being observed. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, as administrator, read the following speech from the throne: Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate, Gentlemen of the House of Commons: I am glad to be able to relieve you from further attention on the long protracted session, and thank you for the assiduity and care you have given to the unusually large number of important subjects that have been submitted for your consideration. It is satisfactory to note the many excellent measures that have been passed, and which it is hoped will prove beneficial to the people of Canada.

Among other acts, attention may be called to the Manitoba Grain act, and the Grain Inspection act, which, while protecting the high standards of western grown grain from inferior mixtures, secure to the farmer the value attaching to these standards.

In response to an advanced public opinion, appointments and promotions in the civil service will be made henceforth only after a competitive examination, in which those who excel will receive the reward of merit, and, while the application of the act is limited to the inside service of the government, its provisions may later on be extended to the service throughout the Dominion.

The act revising and consolidating the laws and regulations affecting the disposition of the public lands will, it is believed, meet with the hearty approval of the western provinces more immediately interested. One of the principal features of the act is the permission to take up a second homestead within a limited area, and also the permission for a homesteader to acquire by purchase the adjoining quarter section. It is intended that the proceeds of the sales shall, in the first place, be set apart as a fund for the construction of a railway to Hudson's Bay.

The amendments to the Bank act, allowing, under certain restrictions, an expansion in the circulation of notes of the banks during the period of the year when the crops are being moved, it is considered, facilitate the quick movement of the crop from the farm to the markets of the world.

Important amendments have been made to the act respecting elections, which it is confidently believed, will more effectively protect the rights of the voters, and guard against the exercise of undue influence in electoral contests.

The proposal to make free grants of lands to the volunteers who rendered valuable service to the Empire in the South African war, will meet with hearty approval.

The reduction of the postage on dropped letters in cities and country towns and the enlargement of the area within which the postage on certain classes of newspapers may be carried free, will, I feel sure, be appreciated.

Amendments have been made to the Inland Revenue act, whereby the discrimination against Canadian grown tobacco, created by distinctive labels used on cigars and tobacco, will no longer exist. It is confidently believed that the effect of improving and enlarging the home-grown tobacco, and prove of great benefit to that portion of our agricultural people engaged in that industry.

The increasing demands for improved transportation facilities in a country so widely extended and so sparsely settled as this Dominion, warrants public aid in the construction of railways, and the experience of the past amply justifies the liberal subscription in the act that has been assented to.

The placing of the telegraph and telephone systems under the jurisdiction of the railway commissioners will meet with the hearty approval of all classes in the Dominion.

The rapidly increasing number of applications to the board of railway commissioners involves the necessity for the appointment of additional members on the board.

The extension of the time for the payment of a bounty on lead ores, and the enlargement of the conditions of which the bounty may be earned, will, it is believed, stimulate the growth of an important industry in the province of British Columbia.

The physical and mental degradation following from the too free use of opium have long been recognized, and efforts have been made in all countries boasting of advanced civilization to stamp out its use, except when prescribed for medical purposes. The increasing consumption of this deleterious drug in Canada has prompted the adoption of an act to restrain its use except when authorized by medical men.

The issue of government annuities for old age, will, it is confidently believed, encourage habits of thrift and economy, securing the holder some provision for declining years.

The subject of immigration from Japan has received much attention during the year, and it was deemed desirable to send one of my ministers to Japan to discuss with His Majesty's ambassador at Tokio, and with the Japanese authorities, the advisability, in view of the local conditions in this country, and other reasons, for restricting such immigration. I am glad to know that a satisfactory arrangement has been effected, and I feel assured that the terms of the agreement will continue to be faithfully carried out.

Arrangement has been effected, and I feel assured that the terms of the agreement will continue to be faithfully carried out.

An arrangement with regard to immigration from India having also become desirable, a representative of the government was sent to England to discuss the question with the authorities of the United Kingdom, with results that promise to be satisfactory. In both these cases it has been the desire of my government that while caring properly for the interests of the Dominion, the welfare of the empire should also be regarded.

The gold and silver manufacturing act will stimulate the manufacture of superior quality of the precious metals, and at the same time will protect the public from fraudulent representations. The act restraining the use of tobacco by young persons, which it is hoped, checking a growing habit that is seriously affecting the health of many Canadian boys.

When parliament opened in November last, a serious financial depression prevailed throughout the adjoining republic, the effect of which was far-reaching, involving in a large degree those countries having business relations with it. The crisis in the money market that followed, coupled with the diminished value of the crop of the prairie provinces, seriously affected the yearly increasing proceeds which Canada had enjoyed during the preceding years. The hopeful outlook for an unusually large crop of cereals, and products of the soil, will, it is believed, make this the beginning of a long series of years of plenty, and prosperity.

It is gratifying to observe the patriotic enthusiasm that has been aroused, not only in all parts of the Dominion, but throughout the empire at the approaching celebration of the founding of the city of Quebec, three hundred years ago, by the French. To add to the glory of the occasion, His Gracious Majesty the King has deigned to send His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to represent him at the interesting pageants that will be presented at the event. Also the presence of representatives from France and the United States at the ceremonies will be hailed with pleasure by the people of Canada, and will be accepted as an evidence of friendship on the part of the citizens of those two great republics.

SIX MEN ARE KILLED BY RAILWAY TRAINS

An Extraordinary Occurrence Causes Much Comment at Buffalo

Buffalo, July 20.—Between midnight and daybreak this morning six foreigners were run down and killed by trains in the railroad yards at South Buffalo.

None of the dead men have been identified. The first body was found on the Lake Shore railroad just beyond the city limits. The bodies were badly mutilated.

Two hours later the body of three were found 300 yards west of the Buffalo creek crossing. Like those found earlier, the bodies were so badly cut up that identification will be very difficult.

The six deaths coming within a few hours caused some talk among the foreigners in South Buffalo of a suicide pact among despondent and idle laborers. It is more probable, however, that they were struck by trains when coming from their work, or while out seeking for employment, this morning.

LABOR LEADERS ARE SUMMONED TO COURT

Charged With Contempt of Order in Buck Stove and Range Case

Washington, July 20.—In the Buck Stove and Range case, Justice Anderson, of the district supreme court, today summoned Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, Secretary Frank Morrison of that organization, and John Mitchell, of the executive council, and George W. Brown, president of the United States Mine workers of America, to appear in court on September 8 next to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of the court's injunction order.

The citation is based on a petition of the Buck Stove and Range Co., of St. Louis, which alleges that an order issued by Justice Gould, forbidding an alleged boycott by the American Federation of Labor, has been violated by the public utterances and addresses of the three labor leaders named. It also is stated that Mr. Gompers caused to be published in the Federationist, the official organ of the federation, a certain article reflecting upon the court's decision, and in alleged open defiance printing the name of the Buck Stove and Range Co. in the "We don't patronize" list. Mr. Gompers is quoted as saying: "Several newspapers are saying 'So far as I am concerned, I wish to state this: When it comes to a choice between surrendering my rights as a free American citizen and violating the injunction of the courts, I do not hesitate to say that I shall exercise my rights as between the two.'"

Other utterances are quoted in which it is alleged Gompers and Morrison in furtherance of an alleged plan to nullify the court's order have published editorially and otherwise references to the court's decision, including the name of the Buck Co. These references, it is said, were made for the purpose of keeping alive the idea of the boycott as it existed before the order of the court, and were so framed as to effect the sale of the company's products.

Mr. Mitchell at a meeting of the United Mine Workers last January voted a resolution imposing a fine of $50 on a member of that organization who purchased a stove or range of that company's make. The resolution also provided for the expulsion of a member in default of payment of the fine.

ANCIENT CAPITAL HEARS BIG GUNS

Ships of Nations Which Once Fought for Mastery Fire Friendly Salutes

CELEBRATION BEGINNING

Streets and Buildings of Old City Are Decorated and Illuminated

Quebec, July 20.—Fleets of three nations joined today in saluting the real opening of the three hundredth birthday of the Dominion of Canada, and during the whole afternoon the banks of the St. Lawrence have been reverberating with the thunder of the cannon as they saluted fort and navy under the wall of the citadel.

There was a touch of historic poetry in the scene today when the U. S. battleship New Hampshire arrived. The three nations most intimately concerned with the wars of this continent were represented. France, which founded Canada, Great Britain, which won it on the Plains of Abraham, and the United States of America, which tried in vain to win it from the British. Yet today the ships of the three nations met on the scene of their former fierce combats, and where in the past they had fired powder for the stern purposes of war, today they used far more terrific armaments for the purposes of peace and courtesy, while the officers and men of the various ships were fraternizing in the city not only with each other, but with the land forces in picturesque good fellowship.

It was nearly one o'clock when the big U. S. battleship swung around the curve in the river below the city, and long before then the news that she was coming spread through the city, so that the Dufferin terrace, the ramparts and the city were thronged with spectators as the New Hampshire forged her way up stream.

In the evening throughout the centre of the city almost every large building was a blaze of light, while Dufferin terrace was illuminated from end to end, the Chateau Frontenac being picked out with electric lights. On every coign of vantage were colored pictures in electric lights that added greatly to the charm of the scene. Amongst other buildings Laval University attracted enormous crowds, being decorated on an ambitious scale that relieved the celebrated decorations in honor of the cardinalate of the late Mgr. Taschereau.

Lords Pass Pension Bill.

London, July 20.—The House of Lords tonight passed the second reading of the old age pensions bill, thus insuring its becoming a law.

Both Feet Cut Off.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 20.—The little son of Angus E. McCormick, of Souris, had both feet cut off by a mowing machine while playing in a field today.

Distemper Among Horses.

Toronto, July 20.—There is an epidemic of distemper among horses here at present, and the forwarding companies have lost a number of valuable animals. One firm has lost 25 so far.

Injuries Prove Fatal.

Hamilton, Ont., July 20.—Bert Green, who with James Sturock was blown up in a quarry near Dundas recently, died in the hospital here today. Sturock died the day after the explosion.

Three Canoeists Drowned

Guelph, Ont., July 20.—Fred Anderson, driver of a tallyho, was jolted from his seat on Saturday falling under the wheels which passed over his body, resulting in death shortly afterwards.

Lumbermen Lose by Fire

Ottawa, July 20.—Disastrous fires have destroyed between 150 and 200 million feet of lumber in the Ottawa valley. J. R. Booth, Gillies Bros., and Sheppard and Morse are among the big losers. Much blame is attached to mining prospectors, who are careless regarding fires they make.

Made Good on Prophecy.

Jamestown, N.Y., July 20.—Mrs. LeRoy Noble some time ago prophesied that she would die on June 29th. On the date she named she died. Today the coroner announced his findings of a chemical analysis of the woman's stomach. She had poisoned herself with strychnine and fulfilled her prophecy.

Ladysmith Jail Burned.

Ladysmith, July 20.—The provincial jail which was used as an office by Constable Cassidy and also served as a county court house, was totally consumed by fire yesterday. The jail stands back along the Victoria road and there are fires burning all around it on the land that is now being cleared by the C.P.R. company. It is supposed that a spark from these fires started the blaze in the government building, but that has yet to be settled. The fire was first discovered by Constable O'Connell about 12 o'clock noon, and he was in time to get out all the furniture fittings and books. By the time the firemen arrived with their hose, however, the building was manifestly doomed, and as a matter of fact it was utterly consumed together with all the outhouses. The damage will run to about $2,000 and new buildings will have to be erected.

New Pound Bylaw Considered By City Council—Again Held Over

After being held over for a week in order that the members of the City Council might have an opportunity of studying the measure, Alderman Hall's long expected by-law to amend the City Pound by-law, and to amend (as to the tax upon dogs) the Receipts by-law, came up for consideration at last night's meeting of the City Council. The measure as submitted was considered in committee and a considerable portion of it passed with but little comment until that section referring to dogs being prohibited from running through the inhabited streets or being upon the streets within the fire limits, unless the animal be attached to some sufficient means of securely attaching and restraining it. At this stage of the subject discussion waxed warm and finally, at the suggestion of Acting-Mayor Cameron, it was decided to let the by-law stand over until next week.

Alderman Hall, in moving the second reading of the by-law, pointed out that the measure aimed to do away with the herds of mongrels and curs which at present infest the city, but that the dog of class would be safeguarded within reasonable limits. He claimed that business men and others have sustained considerable damage, and that there could be no reason why man's best friend should not be properly looked after, but any nuisance arising through the growing number of curs be done away with.

Too Great Powers.

The first section to cause discussion was that conferring upon the poundkeeper the right, should he have reasonable reason to believe that a dog is kept on any enclosed premises (other than a dwelling-house) in the city, to enter such premises at reasonable hours to ascertain whether the regulations of the by-law are being observed; also that dog shall obstruct or prevent such entry, but shall answer all questions relating to the ownership, number of dogs, age, breed and sex and whether the tax has been paid.

Alderman Hall stated that there had been considerable objection raised to this section, and in order to remove any objectionable features he suggested that all the section relating to entry be struck out, thus leaving only that portion referring to the right of the poundkeeper to demand answers to his questions from any person believed to be harboring a dog upon his premises. There appeared to be decided objection to the poundkeeper entering any private premises on the principal that every man's home is his castle.

Alderman Henderson was sure that if the poundkeeper went "butting" around private premises he might get hurt, but he should have the right to ask questions, and if the owner refused to answer he could be summoned to the police court for harboring a dog contrary to the provisions of the by-law.

Must Have Tag Attached.

A subsection was also introduced, which provided that a dog, even if the owner has secured a tag, but has not attached it to the collar, can be impounded and the owner will have to pay a fee of fifty cents before he can secure the return of the canine.

On the topic of vicious dogs, Alderman Hall remarked that he wanted it particularly understood that the section prohibiting the keeping of an habitually noisy or vicious dog, should not apply to the animal owned by Mr. E. M. Johnson. The section provided for vicious dogs being upon the streets when muzzled and led by someone over the age of twenty-one years.

Alderman Pauline, in pointing out the necessity of having vicious dogs muzzled, declared that it was about time that another animal who parades the streets, shouting through a megaphone, should also be muzzled. It was, he maintained, a hideous nuisance and should be attended to.

Dogs on Streets

With reference to dogs being allowed within the fire limits unless attached to a leash Ald. Henderson declared that the present state of affairs is beyond endurance and while no doubt there were many dogs well behaved which would follow their masters and not scamper about the streets the nuisance has become almost unbearable.

Ald. Cameron pointed to one case where a woman had been knocked down and nearly killed as a result of being tripped by dogs, and children and bicyclists are always in danger. The principal enunciated in the bylaw should be enforced.

Ald. Hall also favored the provision declaring that at present the city looked like a frontier town. Finally the consideration of the bylaw was left over for a week when the question of the tax to be imposed and how collected will also be considered.

Want "Bobs" Here

A request was received from the British Campers' association through its secretary, William C. Winkler, that the council should, on behalf of the city of Victoria, extend Field Marshal Lord Roberts an invitation to visit here before leaving Canada. It was pointed out that probably the opportunity of having the great general in Canada would never arise again and there are many men in this province who have served under "Bobs" in the forefront of the nation's battles who would be glad to greet their famous leader. The association will be informed that Mayor Hall, who is at present in Quebec, was instructed before his departure to extend to Lord Roberts Victoria's pressing invitation to visit this city.

Senator Macdonald, concerning whose efforts to exterminate the caterpillar pest on his property, the sanitary inspector was asked to report following the objection raised by the senator at a charge made by the city for doing the work after, as the senator declares, he had had the work done, again, and the council in a lengthy communication in answer to the sanitary inspector's report, a copy of which was sent to him. He declares that he is at a loss to understand how to reply to the official's report which does not contain a single statement of fact and is incorrect in conclusions. He wants to know how many men the city employed in its effort to destroy the pests and the number of days they were employed and what were the wages paid.

Not a Mind Reader

Senator Macdonald criticizes the sanitary inspector's statement "that the expiration of the notice I found a Chinaman presumably engaged on the work, but acting in such a manner as left no doubt in my mind that the person employing him had no intention of carrying out the provisions of the by-law." Senator Macdonald asked how the inspector could tell his intention and suggests that the official is paid for facts and not employed in the capacity of a mind reader. The senator then goes on to state what he claims are the facts of the case, declaring that he had hired men to destroy the pest before he received notice from the city and even after the city had put men at the work he had still to take steps to destroy the caterpillars. Senator Macdonald's communication was filed and he will be supplied with the information he asks for.

The secretary of the Provincial Royal Jubilee hospital board of directors wrote complaining of the noise of dogs in adjoining properties which was a nuisance and bad for the patients. The directors of the hospital asked that the city take steps to abate the nuisance. The communication was filed and the writer will be informed that the city is now taking steps to do away with the dog nuisance so far as it has jurisdiction.

Agreement Drafted.

In answer to the communication from the reeve of Oak Bay complaining of the attitude which some of the aldermen take towards the request of the municipality that the city should follow out its original intention and enter into an agreement to supply the Oak Bay residents with a supply of water, Ald. Pauline asked if the agreement had yet been drafted as it was Recommended that the report of the fire marshal and building inspector, upon the petition of Louis Russett et al, regarding the accumulation of lumber and other material on lots 75 and 84, corner Kane and Douglas streets, be transmitted to the petitioners, and that they be informed that the by-law governing the piling of lumber in yards will be enforced in this instance.

Recommended that the owner of the house situate on Bay street and numbered 619, be notified that complaint had been received that said house is in an unsanitary condition and unfit for habitation, and that unless the premises are put in a proper sanitary condition, satisfactory to the sanitary inspector, steps will be taken to enforce the provisions of the health bylaw, to close up the premises and prevent it being used as a dwelling.

Recommended that Mrs. J. D. Pemberton be informed that her communication, protesting against the dumping of rubbish on St. Charles street, south of Rockland avenue, has been referred to the sanitary inspector with power to act.

Elks' Title Exclusive.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 18.—Supreme Court Justice Morschauser today made permanent an injunction restraining the Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World from using its present title. The order is composed of colored men. The application for the injunction was made by the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

decided to do some time ago and City Solicitor Mason stated that the draft has been prepared and as soon as the city treasurer has looked it over it will be presented to the council for consideration.

A. E. Roberts, pastor of the Victoria West Methodist church, wrote complaining of the fact that while the city has recognized that the church property is exempt from the sewer tax the city treasurer has again sent a notice calling for the payment of the tax. The communication was referred to the finance committee.

The market superintendent called attention to the need of additional stalls on the market grounds to accommodate the increasing demand, and pointing out that such addition would be a paying investment. He stated that since he had held the position the revenue of the market has increased sixty per cent. In the four weeks ended July 11 he had paid into the city treasurer $129, of which all but $30 was for rent of the stalls. The matter was referred to the building inspector to make an estimate of the cost and report to the streets, bridges and sewers committee.

Complaints of Dogs.

The secretary of the provincial board of health, in reference to the complaint of the city, as to garbage being dumped in the harbor, answered that steps will be taken to stop the practice.

The request of the B. C. Electric company that it be permitted to erect a waiting room at the Willows upon city property as there is no room on the roadway for such accommodation will be granted temporarily.

With reference to the recent complaints of James Manton, Lansdowne road, about the driving of cattle on that thoroughfare, the city solicitors advised that the matter is covered by the street bylaw which prohibits such driving unless a permit is first obtained from the chief of police. The solicitors add that in all such cases there is great difficulty in getting people to give evidence, but when they are prepared to do this the matter can easily be dealt with in the police court.

The water commissioner and the purchasing agent reported that only one tender, that of Josiah Bull, had been received for the supply of 10,000 cubic yards of sand for the Elks Lake filters. The report was adopted and the contract will be let to Mr. Bull.

Street Works.

The report of the streets, bridges and sewers committee was adopted as read. It follows:

Recommended that a sewer be constructed on Chamberlain street, formerly Wilson street, from Oak Bay avenue southerly; estimated cost, $1,450.

Recommended that the report of the sanitary inspector and building inspector, upon the complaint of Mr. Frank Armstrong, regarding a stable belonging to Mr. D. Spencer, at the corner of Michigan and Parry streets, be forwarded to Mr. Spencer for his information, together with the communication of Mr. Armstrong in reference thereto, and that Mr. Spencer be informed that in view of the conditions stated the council will take steps to compel compliance with the bylaws governing stables.

Mr. Fred T. Cromwell, late of Portland and at present of this city, is just down from Ashcroft, where he has concluded the purchase of the Jno. W. McGillivray ranch of 3000 acres, which is situated about thirty miles from that excellent business and traffic centre. The transaction also includes the acquisition of a large bunch of cattle, as it is Mr. Cromwell's intention to confine this splendid ranch to the business of stock raising. He is, however, looking over a couple of other properties in the same district, but if he decides to acquire them he will use them for fruit growing purposes either exclusively on his own account or by cutting them up into blocks and disposing of them in suitable parcels. Mr. Cromwell holds other properties, timber, etc., in the northern part of the province, and has no hesitation whatever in urging Americans and others who are desirous of coming into this province, and make similar and permanent investments.

"I have looked over the interior and the northern districts of this province, using the greatest caution in making my investigations," he remarked last evening at the Empress, "and I know of no place which affords a more attractive field for large and desirable investments than can be found at the present time in this great province of British Columbia. I have been pretty well over it, and have traveled over the interior and the upper Fraser, and also know the Nechaco valley, and am besides very familiar with the coast and I think that I am now well qualified to give a positive opinion upon the subject. And I am, moreover, supremely confident that there are thousands in the middle and eastern States who have considerable means, and who if they were shown what admirable opportunities for investment exist at this moment in this province in the way of timber, stock raising, farming and fruit raising properties would absolutely flock into this country, and settle here.

"Again, many people are unfortunately very badly misinformed about certain parts of the country. For instance, the Nechaco valley is a very fine section, but you surely do not want people coming in here like a flock of sheep, and getting practically stranded, but the other day in Quesnel, the man was carrying his tent on his back, and had $50 in his pocket, while his wife was trundling the baby along the road in a cart. Such immigration is positively absurd.

"The Ashcroft district is a particularly desirable locality, and a person with experience of the United States it would attract many Americans if its capabilities were known. For it has the soil, and it has the climate. I have two irrigation ditches on my 3000 acre ranch, and I intend going heavily into cattle, for stock raising purposes. Alfalfa has been tried already and on a tolerably extensive scale, and does excently. There is also a good deal of alfalfa land on the Bonaparte river, which empties into the Thompson, about a mile above the town of Ashcroft. I have the most implicit faith in the future of this country, and that is my sole reason for making these purchases. In fact, British Columbia has only begun to enter upon a great career of the most unquestionable prosperity.

"Ashcroft is the only possible route to the Nechaco valley, but people should really be informed that they cannot get beyond Quesnel with teams, as only the pack train can then be used.

"Some twelve families who came up from Idaho through the Okanagan valley in prairie schooners are at Quesnel now, but they cannot take their wagons any further."

RIFLE ASSOCIATION'S INTERESTING RECORD

Oldest of Sporting Aggregations in British Columbia—Some Reminiscences

It is interesting indeed to dig up the old records of that worthy and patriotic club, the Rifle Association of British Columbia, which for a generation and a half have been the champions of the noble art—the science of shooting straight. The British Columbia Rifle Association, now holding its thirty-fifth annual prize meeting at Clover Point is honored by being the oldest of all the organizations which devote their energies to matters of sport in this western province. And it is unique in that, numerically small as it was on its first day, it has never missed holding its prize meeting once a year, which is more than ever its great parent, the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association can say. From a trivial affair of a score of riflemen, armed with prehistoric weapons, black powder and lead ball, with 500 yards Government range, it has grown to be a great annual gathering of marksmen to test all that science and ingenuity has been able to place in their

The First Wimbledon Team
Prior to the holding of the first annual matches, another auspicious event had occurred. It was the selection and departure for Wimbledon of the pioneer of a long list of representative riflemen which British Columbia had sent to Wimbledon and Bisley. The gentleman who was to lead in the many years afterwards deputy adjutant general of this military district. Mr. J. Rowland Hett was appointed the first secretary. Among others who attended the first council meeting were Hon. Mr. Justice Gray, Major Dupont, and Mr. J. Allsop, all gentlemen whose names appear prominently in the annals of early days. With the election of officers the association was now fairly launched and commenced its long and useful career.

First Annual Meet.
Six months later the first annual meeting was held, but ere those eventful days had rolled round, trials and tribulations cropped up which bid fair to severely check—they could not suppress—the budding institution.

A rifle range was arranged for at Clover Point, but scarce had they installed the targets, and become familiar with the contour of the ground then they were ordered to desist. Funds were lacking, such as they had were borrowed, and it may relieve the mind of the modern financial manager to know that even in those good old blissful days of yore their predecessors went "broke" just as they do now. Two rifles of the latest pattern, the Martini-Henry, with a thousand rounds of ammunition, prizes presented by the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor of London, and citizens of London for competition at the inaugural prize meeting of 1874, and which had arrived from England via California were held by the Wells Fargo express for freight charges. The bill for this was no mere bagatelle.

The "Daily British Colonist," in recording the shooting, says:
"The shooting commenced at Clover Point. The attendance of competitors was large, but the public—to their discredit be it said—were quite conspicuous by their absence. On an occasion of so much importance, we certainly expected a keen interest manifested. The range on which the firing took place is a new one, but the scores were remarkably good. The day was hazy overhead, and therefore rather unfavorable for shooting. The weapons used in the first and second matches were the Snider-Enfield, but in the firing for the association prize any rifle was used. It will be seen however by the scores that the best firing was with the Snider-Enfield, and that the competitors who used the Martini-Henry, Snider-Enfield, Henry and Sharp weapons were "nowhere" in the match. Some dissatisfaction was felt with the marking, but that will probably be remedied today. Pool firing was lively; Vowell, Howard and Butler making 3 bulls each, and Berkley 2. The bullseyes amounted to $1.80 each in dividing the pools."

The First Prize Winner
The unique distinction of winning the first prize and match shot in the British Columbia Rifle Association's matches fell to Pte. Woolacott of the Victoria rifles. Sgt. J. C. Brown, of the Westminster rifles, got second place. The opening match, 5 rounds each at 200, 400 and 600, with the Snider-Enfield, was for cash prizes, two in number, being 1st $20, 2nd $5. Twenty-two competitors fired, the score of the winners being, out of a possible 60, as follows:

Pte. Woolacott	200	400	600	Tl.
Sgt. J. C. Brown	13	16	14	43
Sgt. J. C. Brown	15	16	8	39

The kingpin contest of the first day was that for one of the latest and most powerful destructive instruments of recent invention, a Martini-Henry rifle, and 500 rounds of ball, presented by no less a personage than the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor of London. It was the only prize. Five rounds each at 200, 500 and 600 yards, restricted to "enrolled militiamen" constitutes the conditions. The rifle was won by Capt. Peele with 40; Col. Houghton was second with 39.

The matches continued throughout the three days. On the second day the lieutenant-governor's challenge cup, the first of several that have since been presented by the occupants of that high office, was the main competition, and on the third day that for the Martini-Henry rifle, the gift of the citizens of London, was the crowning event. The lieutenant-governor's cup was won by Sgt. R. Butler, and it ultimately became his permanent property, as he complied with the conditions by which it was to be won twice before it became his own. The names of the winners of the ten matches were:

Opening match, Pte. Woolacott Lord Mayor's Match, Pte. Woolacott Association Match, Sgt. J. P. Kennedy All-Comers' Match, J. C. Newbury Effective Militia, Ensign Woffenden Lieut.-Gov's Cup, Sgt. R. ### A RECAPITULATION

The City Council is making certain improvements in the city water supply, which, when completed, will, we are assured, meet the present requirements of the city, and possibly provide all the water that may be needed for a year or two after they are completed.

These improvements have only been undertaken after several years of discussion.

It is conceded that an additional water supply must be provided for.

It will take a year or two to secure such additional supply, after we have decided what we will obtain.

The growth and prosperity of Victoria depends upon an abundant supply of good water.

There are three available sources of water supply for Victoria:

Elk Lake and waters that can be made tributary to it;

Sooke Lake;

The Goldstream Watershed.

The first named is at present subject to some slight extent to contamination. The second will become subject to contamination as the settlement of the country progresses. The third is and will remain as free from possible contamination as any water supply in the world can be.

Elk Lake and the waters that can be made tributary to it can supply sufficient water for some 40,000 or 50,000 people, but the water is not of first quality and the pressure is inadequate.

Sooke Lake can furnish water for the requirements of such a city as Victoria is likely to be within the next quarter of a century, and under adequate pressure, but the cost of making it available is conceded to be beyond the present means of the city.

The Goldstream Watershed can furnish sufficient water for the needs of Victoria for the next quarter of a century and under adequate pressure, and the water from that source can be made available for the use of the city in a comparatively short time, and at moderate cost.

The city is undertaking to supply, and must in the nature of things continue to supply, the residents of the municipality of Oak Bay and of a part of the municipality of South Saanich. The Esquimalt Waterworks Company supplies a part of the city and of the Esquimalt district. (We submit that the water supply of the entire city and its suburbs ought to be vested in the hands of this municipality.)

In pursuance of the policy that the public interest should prevail over private interests, the legislature has empowered the Water Commissioner of the city of Victoria to take over for the city any water or property which he deems necessary for the proper supply of the city. The price to be paid for anything so taken over is to be fixed by arbitration.

Not only can the city take over any part of the property of the Esquimalt Waterworks Company that is needed, but it can compel the company to furnish it with water until it gets ready to take over the property.

All the machinery necessary to enforce these rights is provided by law. The Supreme Court of the province has decided that these rights are vested in the city.

The powers of the Water Commissioner are clearly defined, and he does not need to wait for any one to take the initiative. He was clothed with these powers for the very reason that water is essential for the people of a city, and therefore it is desirable that some one should be commanded and empowered to supply it.

The situation of Victoria is unique, because:

It has an abundance of pure water available;

It can compel a private corporation to supply it with water at so much per gallon without on its part going to a single dollar's capital outlay;

It can take that company's property over if it sees fit.

A popular vote or the assent of the ratepayers is not needed to authorize such action as may be necessary to procure all the water the citizens need and that suburban residents can ask for.

Here are twenty statements of fact. Are they true? Or, if not, which of them is untrue?

Are there any other considerations which ought to be taken into account, and are such as modify the logical deduction from these facts?

If there are such other considerations, we should like to have them stated. Meanwhile we put it up to the Water Commissioner to proceed forthwith to discharge his duty and provide for a sufficient supply of pure and wholesome water for the use of the citizens.

NO. 27.

At the risk of once more incurring the disapprobation of some of the Fire Wardens, we venture to ask why it is that the fire alarm rings out 27 so frequently. We know the explanation that this is the number used, when the alarm is in the business district or is sent in by telephone, and this is just why there is so much complaint about its being used. The object, or at least one of the objects of a telegraphic fire alarm is to indicate to the fire department and to the citizens in what part of the city a fire is, but as a rule 27 means nothing at all except that there is a fire somewhere. As soon as the number is rung out, there is a rush to the telephone in all parts of the city and either the fire headquarters or the police station is besieged with inquiries as to the locality of the fire. It is fair to add that the officers on duty are always very courteous about answering questions. But surely it ought not to be beyond the range of possibility to devise some expedient whereby the proper number could be rung on the alarm. We submit that 27 ought not to be rung at all, unless the fire is within some particular area, but that there should be a device arranged so that, on receipt of a telephone notification of a fire, headquarters may ring up the right number on the alarm. Such a plan would save people a great deal of time and anxiety. A business man is awakened in the night by the alarm 27. He thinks it may be down in the business centre. After a time he is able to get hold of one of the above-mentioned departments by the phone, and he may have to wait for some time until others get off the line. Then he learns, as a business man did the other night, that the fire is close to his own premises, which is information that he might have received from a properly sounded alarm; or he may be told that it is away off on the outskirts of the city, two or three miles from any place in which he is interested. An instance occurred not very long ago, where 27 rang out, and a citizen, hearing it and not having any special interests in the centre of the city, turned over and went to sleep. He was awakened by the noise of the firemen coupling the hose to a hydrant in front of his house, to extinguish a fire a few doors distant. Surely this sort of thing can be remedied. We do not believe there is an electrician in the city, who could not remedy it in a little while and at a very slight cost.

THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

The people of Victoria have always had a very kindly feeling for the Canadian Northern Railway Company. Doubtless this is due chiefly to the fact that they have been led to look upon that company as likely to afford them that connection with the Mainland that they feel is needed for the full development of the commercial interests of their city. At one time it seemed probable that we would have to depend upon it for the opening of Vancouver Island. Those who knew Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann were well aware that they appreciated in a very high degree the value of the resources of this island and the strategic advantages of its ports. By acquiring the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway and engaging in a policy of extension, the Canadian Pacific has occupied to a certain extent the field to which it has been supposed the Canadian Northern was looking; but this has not really lessened the interest which Victorians take in the very remarkable company of which Mr. William Mackenzie is the head, with Mr. D. D. Mann as a capable lieutenant. For these reasons, Colonist readers will be interested to learn that this company has received some very substantial assistance from the Dominion Parliament. The following despatch to the Montreal Star gives the particulars:

The Minister of Railways has given notice of a resolution providing for a guarantee of the bonds, debentures and other securities of the Canadian Northern railway to the extent of thirteen thousand dollars per mile on the construction of several new lines in the West, as follows:

1. A line of railway from or near Regina, in Saskatchewan, to the westerly boundary of Manitoba, there connecting with the company's line to Brandon, not exceeding 132 miles.

2. A line of railway from or near Saskatoon, in Saskatchewan, thence running in a southerly and westerly direction towards Calgary, not exceeding 175 miles.

3. A line of railway from or near Prince Albert, in Saskatchewan, by way of North Battleford and Battleford Junction to or near to Battleford, excluding, however, the mileage between North Battleford and Battleford Junction, the distance exclusive of the last mentioned mileage not exceeding 132 miles.

4. A line of railway from the Thunder Hill line of the company's railway at or near the westerly boundary of Manitoba, running in a generally westerly direction towards Rosthern, a distance not exceeding 132 miles.

5. An extension of the Rossburn line from the western boundary of Manitoba to the northwestern direction, a distance not exceeding 50 miles.

Another resolution provides for a guarantee of the extent of $13,000 a mile for the first fifty miles of the Edmonton, Yukon and Pacific railway, and of $25,000 a mile for the additional remainder of the line.

The resolution provides that interest on the securities will be paid at the rate of 13½ per cent per annum. The securities will be guaranteed by one or more deeds of trust which shall create a mortgage or charge upon all the lines of the railway now in operation.

what it is at present, and it was authorized to build a railway either to the Yellow Head Pass or to the Pelly River Pass, and thence by such route as is found or is deemed most practicable to a port of British Columbia. Subsequently the company was authorized to transfer its franchise to the Canadian Northern. The powers of the company as to its western terminus are therefore wide, and it needs no additional legislative authority to construct to Victoria or any other point, which it may select. The guarantee applies to any route through the province by which it may build.

OUR POSITION.

If the Times is content to stand on its record on the water question, the Colonist has no wish to drive it from the position it has taken. We regret to think that its judgment has been so warped by prejudice that it cannot see its clear line of duty. Very foolishly it chooses to regard the attitude taken by the Colonist as one approved of, or at least in the interests of the Esquimalt Waterworks Company. We know of no means whereby a jaundiced mind can be relieved of its unfounded suspicions. Last night it advised the citizens to "sit tight," by which we understand that it means them to delay in providing for the future needs of the city. Does the Times know what "sitting tight" may directly or indirectly cost the city? Can it fix a limit to the loss of prosperity that will result from failure to supply plenty of water? Can it estimate the possible increase in value of the property of the Esquimalt Waterworks Company?

Once and for all, we say that in taking the course it has in this matter the Colonist is influenced by no other consideration than to promote the public welfare. We do not know whether or not we have urged what is acceptable to the management or the shareholders of the Esquimalt Waterworks Company, nor do we care. We have a duty to perform and we are endeavoring to perform it. We have contented ourselves with the simple presentation of facts that cannot be disputed, and with the quotation of statutes whose meaning has already been construed by the highest court in the province. From what we conceive to be our duty in the premises we do not propose to be swayed by any attempt on the part of the Times or any one else to question the sincerity of our motives. It is easy to gain a cheap notoriety by pretending that a certain line of action taken by some one else is in the interests of some corporation. The Times is welcome to whatever pleasure it can derive from attributing such considerations to the Colonist. We do not propose to offer any defence to such a baseless charge. There is such a thing as honesty in the world, even if our contemporaries may not think so.

The rate war is developing some humorous phases, but the laugh is hardly as yet upon the Canadian company.

The way Mr. Bryan is growing as a presidential possibility in the eyes of the people of the United States is one of the most remarkable phases of the contest on the other side of the line.

There has been a good deal of talk on both sides of the Atlantic about disagreements in high naval circles in Britain, but much of it is due to the imagination of newspaper correspondents.

There was a time when Mr. Sifton used to get a good many more kicks than haps from his political opponents. Just now it seems to be in order to hand him bouquets, but just why is not obvious.

Judge Taft has joined a labor organization, having just been elected a member of the International Society of Steam Shovelmen. Membership in such an organization will possess some obvious advantages in the event of a "snow-under."

It is intimated that Mr. Bourassa's supporters in Quebec are going to oppose the Laurier candidates at the next election. We do not fancy that the Conservative leaders will make any special effort to effect an alliance in that quarter.

Nelson finds itself in the position of being compelled to double the capacity of its light and power plant. This is a very healthy sign. A bylaw will shortly be submitted to the people, and will pass. In matters of civic progress the people of Nelson pull together.

Great Britain has made a magnificent showing in the Olympic contests. Next to victories by our own athletes, this is the most gratifying result possible in the eyes of Canadians. The most of the prizes and honors are to be kept in the Imperial family, anyway.

In many cities just now agitations are afoot looking to the suppression of street noises. Possibly a similar movement will one day be inaugurated here. The practice of permitting men in bugles to parade the streets shouting through megaphones, would in that event receive a consideration which would not be exactly superfluous.

There is loud complaint about the obsolete character of some of the street cars at present in use in the city. We feel sure that the company will remedy the matter at the earliest possible date. Victoria simply expanded more rapidly than the B. C. Electric Railway Company had any notion that it would, and now it is experiencing a little difficulty in catching up with it.

Well-informed critics in London of the present government's naval policy say it is inevitable that before long there will be a reversal of Sir John Fisher's programme, particularly in respect to that part of it which called for the abandonment of foreign stations. This is not without interest to those who are debating what is to be the future of Esquimalt.

One of the most notable things in British political life is the remarkable manner in which the foreign policy of the nation has been taken out of politics. The change in this respect during the last twenty years has been very pronounced, and it has been more marked during the last decade. Mr. Gladstone never had any real foreign policy.

Congratulations to the officers and members of the St. Andrew's Society on the great success which attended the Scottish Games held under its auspices on Saturday. This is all the more pleasing as it indicates a revival of interest in the affairs of one of our most respected social organizations, which for some years has been allowed to lie in a somewhat dormant state.

The reports showing mining development in the Kootenays are very favorable, the tonnage output being large and increasing. The reopening of the properties that have been shut down is an extremely favorable phase of the situation. In this connection it is to be noted that the Last Chance mine, one of the Slocan's principal silver shippers, is to be again operated, also the Silver King mine, and the Hall Mines' smelter.

Today at Nelson the Conservatives of Kootenay will assemble in convention to nominate a candidate for the approaching federal campaign. That the choice will be a wise one, we have no doubt, nor that, backed as it will be by the prestige of the entire party in this province—which never was so satisfactory in its history—he will carry the banner to victory. Certainly the prospects could not be more favorable for such an achievement.

During Mr. McBride's recent tour on the Mainland, the party inspected the stupendous piece of work being undertaken by the C.P.R. in Kicking Horse Canyon, where immense tunnels are being driven through solid rock to lower the grades and avoid excessive curves. The ministers were particularly glad to note that none but white labor was being employed. Their satisfaction in this respect will be shared by the country at large. This incident in no small measure serves as a vindication of the present provincial government's immigration policy.

There is a good deal of talk over the fact that Mr. Keir Hardie, M.P., was not invited to the King's recent garden party. The explanation given at the time was that he was left off the list because he spoke disapprovingly of the King's visit to Russia, an explanation not easily reconcilable with the fact that other members of Parliament, who took the same attitude, were invited. It has been given out with a show of authority that the reason of the omission was the seditious counsel given by Mr. Hardie to the people of India on his recent visit to that country. It would indeed be intolerable if a member of Parliament could preach sedition among a people, as easily misled as the Hindus, and yet receive royal countenance. There are some duties which the sovereign owes to the people, and one of them is to stamp sedition with the mark of his disfavor.

Some eastern exchanges are discussing very seriously the effect of the enlargement of the boundaries of Quebec upon the representation of the other provinces in the House of Commons. As every one knows, or ought to know, Quebec has sixty-five members in that body, and periodically the population of Quebec is divided by 65, and the unit of population thus obtained governs the number of representatives to which such provinces are respectively entitled. On the face of it this looks like a very good arrangement, but it does not work out as was anticipated. Quebec is increasing more rapidly in population than Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Hence these three provinces have to contemplate serious reductions in the numerical strength of their representation. When the boundaries of Quebec are enlarged, the chance of such a reduction becomes greater, although not very much so, when the addition consists of such territory as Ungava. But the point is an important one and something will have to be done to meet it.

In a recent issue of the Toronto Mail and Empire we find some figures relative to the great Conservative victory in Ontario at the provincial elections, which are of much interest at this time. We quote: "With two constituencies yet to hear from, the official figures for the general election in Ontario, as given in the returns to the Clerk of the Legislature, indicate that the popular majority of the Conservative party over the representatives of the Opposition was 35,634. Over the Opposition and Independent candidates combined, the Whitney Administration's majority was 55,620 votes. The total vote polled was 470,208, of which the Conservatives secured 277,914, the Liberals 182,280, and the Independents, including Socialist and Labor men, 10,014. That is, the Government obtained an endorsement from about 60 per cent. of the people. Conservatives, even when the Reform Party was in office, have for 25 years polled the majority of votes in Ontario, but the result on June 8th shows that never in the past did such a large number of the electors go to the polls, and never did they roll up so great a majority in favor of the party now in power."

NOTE AND COMMENT

FORTY YEARS AGO

BRITISH OPINION

Apres of the early approach of the federal elections, the Kamloops Standard makes the following interesting reference to the changed political conditions in British Columbia since the advent of the McBride government:

British Columbia has felt the effect which followed the placing in power of an administration pledged to and capable of undoing the meshes in which extravagant and short-sighted predecessors had entangled the province. When Mr. McBride took office British Columbia's credit was at an even lower ebb, comparatively speaking than it is that of the Dominion now and for very much the same reason. The province was living beyond its means and the money lenders knowing this had cut off supplies. When the new administration was firmly seated in the saddle, and had shown their ability to make both ends meet, British Columbia's credit was at once placed on a sound basis, and there was no difficulty experienced in securing the requisite capital for necessary public works. It will be the same with federal finances, a change in the personnel of the administration will be followed by a change in methods and a decided change in the attitude of the investors in the money centres. It is time for a change.

After the growth of good crops, the next most important thing is that they shall be promptly handled by the transportation companies. The following statement, therefore, from one of the leading officials of the C.P.R. will be very gratifying to the whole country. We quote from a Montreal dispatch, dated July 13:

"The Canadian Pacific railway knows the crop prospects of the west as well and probably better than anybody else, and there is not the slightest doubt that they will be in position to handle the business as far as their resources go when the time comes." This was the reply of Mr. G. M. Bosworth, fourth vice-president of the C.P.R., this afternoon to the despatches that have been repeatedly sent out from the west of late accusing the Canadian railroads of supineness in connection with the anticipated big crop of wheat to be hauled into this fall. Reports have been pouring into Montreal of a probable crop surplus, and this fact, when the wheat commences to move, and it is feared in the west that the railways do not seem to appreciate the imminence of the harvest and are not making proper preparations to handle it. Asked as to this, Mr. Bosworth, who is in charge of the C.P.R. freight department, remarked: "The C.P.R. is always making preparations for any business offering, and is, in addition, taking every precaution to learn what is likely to come in the future, so as to be able to get ready for anything that may turn up. So far as the western crop is concerned, I think that we understand the crop position in the northwest at least as well as anybody else, since we are constantly securing reports from every section in order that our estimates may be carefully prepared. We know pretty well what is to be expected, and are making every necessary preparation to handle it."

A London correspondent, cabling under date of July 12, refers to a discovery which will come as a ray of hope to many who have friends who are sadly afflicted. We quote:

An illustration of the efficacy of music in the treatment of the feeble-minded occurred at the home for youths of this description belonging to the Metropolitan Asylums board at Witham, where a great change has been effected since the introduction of a brass band.

The director of the home stated yesterday that ever since the interest of the boys had been aroused in the instruments given them to play they had advanced by leaps and bounds towards complete sanity, some of the most obstinate cases having recovered. It has become recognized in the institution that the band boys were distinctly superior to other patients. Several boys whose cases were regarded as hopeless before are now quite rational.

One of the indisputable things about the present political situation is that the announcement that there is a probability of the general elections being brought on immediately has caused great delight to the Conservatives all over the country. This is not without its significance, as the Montreal Gazette points out:

The revival of reports that parliament will soon be dissolved is evidently giving pleasure in opposition circles all over the country. The signs are that the people are waiting to get at the Laurier government just as, in 1896, those of Ontario were waiting to get at the Ross government gang. This session has evidently done the business for the Ottawa wasters.

According to the Tailor and Cutter, a London weekly trade journal, the English are a better dressed people than those of the United States. The reception at Dorchester House, Ambassador Reid's residence, on July 1, was the scene of this journal's investigations. They are summarized as follows:

The most striking feature, not only from the tailoring point of view, but otherwise, was the evident unwillingness of the Americans present, and it would have been as difficult to distinguish a citizen of the great republic across the street by his accent as by the cut of his clothes. Frocks and coats and hats were as much in evidence as at a church parade in Hyde park, smartly cut morning coats, mostly tall braided, being seen in about the same proportion as in any similar fashionable function. The ambassador himself wore a frock coat with rather narrow lapels, which suited his tall, slender figure admirably, and a white vest and dark trousers with white spats, making a harmony and contrast such as we generally associate with the attire of our always well-dressed King. The build of the American, tall of stature and square shouldered, with the general absence of coquetry, is especially suited to the frock coat, and it was easy to see that had realized the suitability and had made further use of their sojourn in London by paying a business visit to a first class tailor.

The British Colonist, Tuesday, June 21, 1868.

Dominion Government.—A Toronto paper says that Lord Mayo will be the next Governor-general of Canada.

Gooseberries.—We have seen a sample of gooseberries for sale, certainly a large and well-flavored as any produced in the colony this season, and would compare favorably with those of British growth. They are to be found in the garden of Mr. Lyne, on Frederick street.

Grist Mill in B.C.—Messrs. Harper & Smith, of Barkerville, B.C., have arranged in Portland and contracted with the Willamette Iron Works for the manufacture of the necessary machinery for a flour mill, which they propose erecting in that Colony.

It is, perhaps, a dangerous subject to touch upon, real estate in Victoria, nevertheless, it seems to us that many complaints of the depreciation of real estate in this city, like many others against the colony in general, are not altogether true or even just. Our opinion is that good real estate free of all incumbrances and all obligations will still bring a good price, and in most cases approximate its actual value. On Friday next we shall have an opportunity of testing this matter. Mr. McCreedy, instructed by Dickson, Campbell & Co., offers property for sale which, as far as we can ascertain, is exceptional, and we think it may fairly be taken as test sale, of the differences existing between the actual value of property in this city, and the price it is capable of bringing at public auction.

ABOUT PEOPLE

One modest item in the Indian honors list will, says the Pall Mall Gazette, be noted with satisfaction by hundreds of Anglo-Indians at home and abroad. That is the Kaiser-i-Hind medal bestowed upon Mrs. D. King, of Calcutta. For many years this lady, the wife of a prominent Calcutta banker and merchant lately retired, has been the prime mover in nearly all the charitable enterprises of the Indian metropolis. Formerly a member of Sir Henry Irving's Lyceum company, she is a most capable actress, especially in modern comedy, and she has been in the habit of using her talent unselfishly for the public benefit. To Mrs. King the European inhabitants of Calcutta are indebted for very many delightful amateur performances, and the hospitals and other institutions for large sums of money collected by this means.

Ordinary cards have hitherto been used in the most republican countries in the world, but without any violence to their feelings. Now, however, it is stated, Republican cards have been provided for France. They are due to the enterprise of a citizen of Rouen, and the dealers are exhibiting them in Paris. Instead of the kings, portraits of Republican Presidents are used, while instead of the queens there are portraits of Joan of Arc, Charlotte Corday, and Madame Roland, and Voltaire, Rousseau, Admiral Collign, and other celebrities take the places of the knaves. This is not, however, the first time that the kings and queens have been dethroned in the world of cards, for it was done at the time of the French Revolution.

The following story refers to a fine day about a fortnight ago. M. Fallieres was returning to the Elysee from his customary morning walk. That morning it happened that M. Clemenceau was his companion. The President of the Republic and the President of the Ministerial Council were making their way along the Rue de Rivoli as well as they might. Not very many recognized M. Fallieres or his companion. Nearly opposite the entrance to the Tuileries Gardens M. Clemenceau raised his hat to a little old lady who was walking along very slowly on the other side of the pavement, leaning on the arm of a dame de compagnie. M. Fallieres, out of courtesy, also raised his hat. The lady acknowledged the attention with an inclination of the head. M. Fallieres and M. Clemenceau passed on. "Who is that fine old lady?" asked M. Fallieres. "Lex-Imperatrix Eugenie," M. Clemenceau answered.

The announcement that the Dominion government have commenced preliminary surveys for a railway from Western Canada to Port Churchill, on Hudson Bay, where steamers are to run direct to Liverpool, is, says the Westminster Gazette, of more than ordinary interest. It is now 300 years since Henry Hudson discovered the great inland sea named after him, but in that long period no use has been made of its 300,000 square miles except by the fur-trading vessels of the Hudson Bay Company. Though ice-bound for the greater part of the year, it is now certain that it is navigable from the middle of June to the middle of October, and by the projected rail and steamer route via the Bay at least 1,000 miles will be knocked off the journey from the Western Provinces to England.

The latest honor bestowed on the senior editor of the Oxford English Dictionary, along with the numerous academic recognitions of his work which have already been conferred upon him, illustrate, says the Westminster Gazette, in striking fashion the change that has come over the world of the dictionary-maker since the day when Johnson defined a lexicographer as "a writer of dictionaries; a harmless drudge," and could write that "every other author may aspire to praise; the lexicographer can only hope to escape reproach, and even the negative recompense has been granted to few." The Oxford Dictionary is a work of which nationally we have every reason to feel justly proud. Sir James Murray's two co-adjudutors, Mr. Henry Bradley and Mr. W. A. Craigie (an Ulsterman by the way), have both done much excellent philological work, apart from the labour they have bestowed upon the Dictionary. Mr. Craigie, who is bringing out very shortly a translation of a Danish poem, has specialized in Scandinavian literature, on which he has written much. He has also edited an edition of Burns and written a primer on the poems of the same author.

The Glastonbury Abbey Restoration Fund has now reached £26,000, leaving a balance of £5,000 still to be raised. Towards this balance an anonymous donor, through Sir Henry Harben, has promised £2,500, provided that the rest of the money, namely, £24,500, is forthcoming by October 1. There is also, however, a further sum of £1,500 wanted immediately to preserve part of the ruin from falling down.

The Morning Post says:—The history of a hundred wars show that the strength of a nation in war is the proportion of its people that have received during peace the thorough training that has made them familiar with their arms. Mr. Haldane rejects experience, and puts the cart before the horse. He says, "Wait first and training after." The remarkable thing is that the people of this country, as represented in Parliament, have accepted this new-fangled doctrine as wisdom. The next war will show whether it is wisdom. The volunteer force was not raised and did not grow on that principle. The spirit of the volunteers was, "We'll learn all we can during peace; if possible, enough for war, but at any rate we will aim at the highest standard." The standard admitted of being constantly approached and as constantly raised so long as the volunteer spirit was working. Mr. Haldane has put a check on that spirit. It may possibly work in spite of him in the territorial force, but possibly it may not survive. In that case there is for Mr. Haldane's successor a problem a thousand times harder than the one which he has failed to solve. His problem was to make the most of the volunteer spirit. But if the volunteer spirit is gone no calculations of time, based on volunteer results can be applied, and the calculations must be based upon compulsion. In that case Mr. Haldane's successor will have only one solution open to him. He will have to put the six months' training at the beginning of the four years instead of leaving it to the beginning of the next war—if that war is only postponed until after his advent.

The Standard says:—The admiralty are to be congratulated upon their decision to conduct fleet manoeuvres upon a large scale during the next three weeks. These exercises cost money, but the country is well assured that under the supreme direction of Lord Charles Beresford the results achieved will be of solid value. It is probably due to the vigorous common sense of the Commander-in-Chief in home waters that the merely spectacular type of manoeuvres has given place to strictly business-like exercises in which definite strategic and tactical problems are approached with a single eye to the use of the fleet in war. The public therefore need not complain if the information acquired and the experience gained are not published in the newspapers. Indeed, the public are accustomed to place a whole-hearted confidence in the active service afloat, and they know perfectly well that if the officers and men are given a fair chance they are to be trusted to do their work. We are, however, here compelled to distinguish sharply between the naval service afloat and the naval administration on shore. There is grave reason to believe that the public confidence in the Board of Admiralty has been much impaired of late years. A policy of what may be called ostensible secrecy, combined with a system of advertising, has aroused a profound uneasiness. Never before have the naval advisers to the government stooped to employ methods of influencing public opinion hitherto deprecated, even in the field of party politics. We cannot affirm that never before has Parliament been so consistently deprived of information regarding the real state of affairs in the navy, but we can safely assert that of recent years a bad tradition has been pushed to deplorable extremes.

In the presence of a full bench of magistrates and a large attendance of the public, the mayor of Southampton presented Miss Annie Elizabeth Placost, with a handsome timepiece for courageously assisting a police officer when in grave peril. The officer was dealing with a very violent prisoner, and it appeared that he was getting the worst of the encounter when Miss Placost went to his assistance, took the handcuffs out of his pocket and herself assisted to secure the prisoner.

NEW ALARM SYSTEM

WILL BE UP-TO-DATE

Proposed Addition to the Fire-Fighting Apparatus Best Yet Contrived

When the new fire alarm system, the apparatus for which has already been ordered by the city, is installed, it will be claimed that it will have a thoroughly up-to-date system which will compare favorably with that of any other city in the country. At a recent meeting of the firewardens the tender of the Gamewell Fire Alarm company was accepted and delivery of the new apparatus will be made within ninety days. The cost of the new apparatus will be $2,547.50.

At present the street alarm boxes, indicators and gongs in the halls and the tower bell are all on one single and continual line and experience has shown that in the event of a fire, the system is a system easily gets out of order. Trouble with any one part of the system throws the whole out of service. The new system, when installed, will obviate this besides greatly lessening the leakage of power which has been all systems. The present system was installed by the Gamewell company about seventeen years ago and today it appears to be in as good condition as when installed but since that time many improvements have been made and the new system will denote the latest and in fact the best apparatus. It is endorsed by all the fire underwriters' associations.

Under the new idea the city will be covered by six separate circuits with a central switchboard automatic repeater and storage batteries to be located in a room in the market building and from this central office the police alarm system will also be operated. Should any one of the six circuits become affected and get out of order the others will still be in proper condition any defect in one not being felt by the others. The amount of battery power which will be greatly reduced from that now needed as the lines will be much shorter and the waste of power much less. Each circuit, or unit, will be connected directly with the central station and any breaks or defects can be much more readily located and repaired. The repeater is an ingenious contrivance which constitutes the chief part of the system. On an alarm being turned in from any box on any circuit it is immediately repeated along all the other circuits though these are not electrically connected with the circuit from which the alarm comes. In this way the alarm is sounded in all the other halls. The repeater is what is termed non-interfering, that is, if an alarm is sent in from a box on one circuit and a second alarm is being sounded the second alarm is not permitted to come through but still it is repeated by a delicate contrivance which thus avoids any loss in time and immediately the first alarm is sent around the various circuits the second alarm follows.

At present it is the intention to install but three circuits, the other three to be added when occasion requires. The speed with which an alarm is received at the various fire halls and the certainty of the system being reliable and unlikely to be affected by temperature or other causes are the chief features of any fire alarm system, and it is claimed that the proposed system to be installed here will add materially to the efficiency of the Victoria fire fighting system.

NEW SUNDAY BYLAW DRAWS FORTH PROTEST

City Council Petitioned to Revoke and Repeal Measure Adopted

With its measure, passed with the intention of regulating certain places of amusement on Sunday, in force but a few days, the City Council is now asked to repeal it, on the grounds that the by-law is unequalled for, unnecessary and inexpedient and not warranted or called for, will work great hardship, inconvenience and injustice, not only upon the actual persons or individuals against whom the same is directed, but also upon those who desire to resort to such places of amusement, and further that such by-law is, in its terms, discriminatory.

At last night's meeting of the City Council a petition signed by F. B. Rendell and 120 others was read, asking that the by-law known as the Places of Amusement, License Regulation by-law be revoked and repealed. The by-law, among other things, prevents the keeping open billiard and poolroom, bowling alleys and dance halls, and prevents any occupation or use of such premises on a Sunday unless for charitable or public purposes. The by-law came into force on July 16, the first day of the present license half-year, and Sunday was the first Sunday on which it became operative. Mr. Rendell, who heads the petition, is already facing a charge laid by the license inspector under the by-law, for keeping open his poolroom last Sunday.

Alderman Henderson asked if any particular section of the by-law was objected to, and suggested that if such were the case it might be amended. But the council had considered it, but Alderman Fullerton strongly objected to any changes and maintained that the by-law was just the proper thing, and found favor with all classes of the community. It was, he maintained, the poolroom proprietors who were objecting to the by-law and there is no use beating about the bush. He asked Acting-Mayor Cameron to read the names, but the latter, after briefly scanning the lengthy list of signatures, admitted that some of them could not be deciphered, stating at the same time, that in his opinion the by-law affected very few and Mr. Rendell appeared to be one of them. Alderman McKewen suggested that the petitioners be notified that the council could not comply with the request to repeal the by-law, but that it would be pleased to learn just what particular part of the measure is objectionable. This suggestion was adopted. Aldermen Fullerton and Meston objected.

Organist Here On Visit.

Mr. T. J. Palmer, the organist of St. Paul's church, Anglican, arrived in town yesterday on a holiday trip from Toronto, and is staying at the Dominion. The rector of St. Paul's is Canon Cody, who declined a bishopric in Nova Scotia a couple of years ago. The Hon. Samuel H. Blake, who is an extremely militant low churchman, and a zealous supporter of Wycliffe college, is a member of this congregation, which is possibly the largest giver for church purposes among all the Anglican congregations in Toronto. Its total contributions last year for all purposes somewhat exceeded $30,000.

Goes to Examine Timber.

A party consisting of Mr. C. M. Shannon, of Los Angeles, and Mr. John Sloan, his sister, Miss Edith, and his son, George Sloan, of Pittsburg, Pa., went over to Vancouver this morning en route to Graham, one of the Queen Charlotte group of islands, for the purpose of examining the timber lands upon that island, which are owned by the Graham Steamship, coal and Lumber Co. These lands comprise 110,000 acres of splendid timber—spruce, cedar and hemlock, and are said to be the largest single block of merchantable timber upon the Pacific coast. Mr. C. A. Henderson, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Betterton and children, and Mr. Jones, of this city, are also members of the party.

McCluskey

The remains of C. B. McCluskey, who after having for some time been missing, were found behind the monastery in South Vancouver about three months ago, having been brought to this city were taken from Hanna's mortuary chapel on Sunday morning to Ross Bay cemetery. Rev. T. J. Holling of the Metropolitan church officiated, and among those present at the burial were his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Switzer, and a few other relatives. The remains of the deceased were held for a considerable period in Vancouver under police surveillance.

RADIANT WOMANHOOD.

The glory and satisfaction of beautiful womanhood can be known only to those possessing the unlimited advantages of health. No weak woman can be happy or enjoy half the pleasures of life. Pallid cheeks, sunken eyes, exhausted nerves, all tell of a terrible struggle to keep up. What the woman needs is Ferrozene; it renews, restores, and vitalizes instantly—it's a "woman's remedy"—that's why.

Ferozone makes woman strong, plump and healthy because it contains lots of nutriment, the kind that forms muscles, sinew, bone and nerve. Vitalizing blood, clearing through the body, making delightful color, happy spirits, true womanly strength. Fifty cents buys a box of Ferrozene in any drug store.

The Time of High Water is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 9 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish High Water from Low Water.

The Height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of the low water. Low Water in each month of the year. This level is a foot lower than the Datum to which the soundings on the Admiralty chart of Victoria harbor are reduced.

A Watermelon Feast. Messrs. Copas & Young, the enterprising grocers of Fort Street, have just received a full carload of nice juicy watermelons. ## GREAT RECORD MADE BY VICTORIA SCHOLARS

Full McGill Matriculation Returns Show Five Local Students Out of First Ten

The results of the McGill matriculation examinations, now that the full returns are to hand, constitute a remarkable tribute to the efficiency of the British Columbia schools and to the ability of the scholars, and as is fitting, Victoria comes out with the best all round record of any place in the Dominion. In all eighty-six students passed the examination, of whom 27 hailed from Victoria. The local high school sent up 40 students in all, so over 66 per cent. were successful.

A scrutiny of the list shows that Vancouver had the honor of the leading scholar, William E. G. Murray coming out on top with 635 marks, out of a possible 700, an average of 90.9 per cent. The second was Miss Jean Robinson, of Victoria, who thus was the first of the girls and beat all the boys but one. She secured 620 marks or about 89 per cent. This record is all the more remarkable as the young lady is not yet 16 years of age. She is the daughter of Alexander Robinson, superintendent of education. As a prompt recognition of her success Miss Robinson has already been offered a scholarship by the authorities. There are seven offered, which are given in order of merit after it has been ascertained which of the students are willing to go into residence. If Miss Robinson accepts she will have to take up her residence at the Royal Victoria college, of Montreal, after the holidays. The matter, however, is not yet decided.

The third student is Mary Wallace Hamilton, of Victoria, the fourth hails from Revelstoke and the fifth from Edmonton, but the sixth and eighth are again Victorians in the persons of Daniel Marshall Gordon and Miss Irene Sutcliffe Adams. The tenth in order of merit is Miss Barbara Isabel Mowat, while the seventh hails from Vancouver and the ninth from Halifax. Thus British Columbia has the honor of supplying the elite of the ten leading successful scholars, five of whom are Victorians, or nearly twice as many as all the rest of the province put together, Vancouver included. The full list is given below and it will be seen that British Columbia students, and especially Victorians, figure largely throughout.

These results are confined to the matriculation in arts. In applied sciences the only other matriculation for which local students were entered, three out of five Victorians who wrote the examinations passed the entrance. These three are Frank Mewburn Dunn, James Thornton Fullerton and Albert Gus Hartman.

The arts matriculation list follows:
Murray, William E. G. (Vancouver High School), 635; Robinson, Jean (Victoria College), 620; Hamilton, Mary Wallace (Victoria College), 606; Hyatt, Jean Irene (Revelstoke High School), 603; Montgomery, Spencer Bishop (Alberta College, Edmonton), 598; Gordon, Daniel Marshall (Victoria College), 581; Cowan, Beulah Martha (Vancouver High School), 562; Adams, Irene Sutcliffe (Victoria College), 546; Manny, Louise (Halifax Ladies' College), 527; Mowat, Barbara Isabel (Victoria College), 522; Buchanan, Christine (Rossland High School), 515; Hamilton, Margaret Prentice (Victoria College), 507; Donald Manson (Victoria College), equal, 507; Hamilton, Florence Olivia (Vancouver High School), 499; Evans, George Gordon (Kamloops High School), 494; Dougan, Wilson (Vancouver High School), 493; Lehman, Mary Edna (Victoria College), 492; Annes Violet (Nanaimo High School), equal, 492; Cairick, Margaret Isabel (Chilliwack High School), 490; Bowman, Winnifred Virginia (Vancouver High School), 488; Ross, Mildred Lillian (Victoria College), equal, 486; Whiting, Frances Margaret (Victoria High School, Vancouver), 482; Atkins, Basil Elmo (Vancouver High School), 481; Garland, Mary Allen (Kaslo High School), equal, 481; Logan, Marnie Helen (Victoria College), 479; Grey, Charles May (Victoria College), 478; Corey, Alice Clara (Victoria College), 475; Davidson, Jessie Alexandra (Vancouver High School), 471; Keenleyside, Alice Morgan (Vancouver High School), 469; Ashwood, Hazel Marjorie (Vancouver High School), 468; Winifred Maude (Victoria College), equal, 464; Mulcahy, Eileen M. The bark Homeward Bound ex Otto Gildemeister, ex Zeminde, the only one of 150 grain ships from the North Pacific to fly the United States flag, has the record for the voyage to Great Britain. The Homeward Bound was 107 days sailing from the Columbia to Falmouth. The British ship, Dynocast, sailed from San Francisco to Queenstown in 106 days, really establishing the record run of the season from this coast. However, considering the greater distance covered by the Homeward Bound, the laurels must be given to that vessel.

The Homeward Bound, arriving in April, was sent to Liverpool to discharge. She left port June 17 and the day following arrived at Swansea to load for Victoria and Vancouver, B.C. No advice of her departure have been received. It is understood that the vessel is under charter to carry another cargo of grain from this coast to Great Britain during next winter. The Homeward Bound is a product of Harland & Wolff's yards at Belfast, where she was launched in June, 1885. She is a steel bark, 292.5 feet in length, with a beam of 39.7 feet and a depth of 23.5 feet.

The vessel was christened the Zeminde, but later was sold to the Germans who called her Otto Gildemeister. Strange to say, during the first years of commission the vessel was regarded as almost a rank failure. She made record long passages seldom developed any speed and appeared to be followed by a hoodoo.

Several years ago the Otto Gildemeister was disabled off this coast and was towed into port almost wreck. She was purchased by Hind, Ralph & Company, the well known San Francisco firm, which operates a large fleet. Efforts to get American register for the German ship were successful and she was renamed the Homeward Bound.

PROSECUTION BECAUSE OF SUNDAY BILLIARDS

First Case Which Has Arisen
Under Ald. Gleason's Closing Bylaw

A summons was issued yesterday charging P. B. Rendell, proprietor of the Rendell's pool and billiard room on Government Street with having violated Section 5 of the by-law recently passed on the initiative of Alderman Gleason, closing places of amusement on Sunday. The clause in question reads as follows:

"Public dance halls, skating rinks, bowling alleys, billiard rooms, pool rooms and other places of public amusement shall be closed at 12 o'clock midnight of each day and remain closed until 6 o'clock the ensuing morning, and on Sundays, so that neither dancing, skating, bowling, billiards, nor games or pool may be carried on there in by any of the public. Provided that this clause shall not apply to entertainments organized for charitable or public purposes or organized or given by private or fraternal organizations."

The information was sworn out by W. H. Hales, the city clerk, and found everything apparently going at full blast. The proprietor is said to have informed the inspector that the proceeds of the play on Sunday were to be given to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, and it is understood that the defense would be that the by-law being carried out, and do not believe that it will stand the test of the courts. The summonses in the case are returnable on Thursday, when the matter will be threshed out in the police court. All other places of amusement are stated to have complied with the Sunday closing law to the letter.

SITS IN PLACE OF MAGISTRATE

Vagrant Given Another Chance
—Chinaman is Charged With Assault

Magistrate Jay is still confined to his house through illness, and in his absence W. W. Northcott, J.P., presided over the police court yesterday. There were seven cases before him, which were disposed of in double quick time. Four of them were vagrants who had been found sleeping in a stable on Wharf Street. One of them claimed to be a working man, but said that he had been locked out of his lodging house on coming home too late, with the result that he had to make his bed where he could. They were all remanded for a further trial on their own recognizances with the intention that they had better clear out of town in the meanwhile. Their names are James Frost, Jack Smart, Thomas McDonald and Edward Penning. The first named was given a similar opportunity to get out of town some time ago but apparently did not avail himself of the opportunity.

Charlie Yen, a Chinaman, who formerly worked at the Commercial Hotel, was charged with having assaulted Michael O'Brien, the bartender of the place, and trying to stab him with a pocket knife on Sunday morning. The Chinaman claimed to be assaulted and has engaged William C. Morphy to defend him. He was released on $100 cash bail. O'Brien states that he made no attempt to retaliate and ran to the police station to call the police on the first opportunity. In the meantime the Celestial made off to Chinatown. The complaint went with the police and was apparently the first to locate him, for he dragged him up the street and gave him in charge to Constable Ireland. No knife was found on Yen when arrested, but the complainant alleges that he passed it to one of his countrymen during the melee which preceded the arrest. The mysterious part of the affair is the apparent absence of motive for the assault. The case was remanded pending the return of Magistrate Jay to the bench.

Grass Fires Prevailing

Grass fires have of late been giving the local fire brigade several runs. The dry, hot weather has made the grass in many localities as dry as tinder and many sparks are being kindled. Yesterday two alarms occurred by fire of this kind were responded to one at 12.50 o'clock on Cook street and a second at 4 o'clock on Henry street, Victoria West.

MANY TENDERS FOR WATERWORKS PLANT

Bids for North Dairy Farm
Pumping Plant and High Level Tank Opened

Tenders for the new pumping machinery to be installed at the North Dairy Farm in connection with the new water works distribution and for the high level tank to be erected on the site recently purchased from Albert Toller on St. Charles street, which will serve as a reservoir to supply the district in the neighborhood of Rockland avenue were opened at last night's meeting of the city council. Twenty-seven tenders in all, including alternative tenders, were received and after being read were referred to the water commissioner, purchasing agent, city electrician and the consulting engineer, Arthur L. Adams, who arrived in the city yesterday in order to pass upon the tenders and inspect the progress of the work on the Smith's Hill reservoir. These tenders will be practically the last ones for machinery to be called for in connection with the new system and are among the most important from the standpoint of expenditure. There were representatives of many of the firms present in the council chamber when the tenders were opened.

The specifications call for what is known as the horizontal, cross-compound crank and flywheel Corliss engine, but tenders were given the privilege of making alternative bids. The capacity of the engine and pump will be 3,600,000 gallons per twenty-four hours. It will be installed in place of the 2,000,000 gallon pump now doing business the latter to be kept in reserve and ready for work should any accident to the new one occur or in case of any other emergency. It is expected that this new pump will be sufficient to meet all the requirements of the city for some time to come. Should its capacity for any reason become overtaxed so that the amount of water it pumps is not sufficient there will be the Smith's Hill reservoir to fall back upon in which there will be several days' supply of water in reserve and which will be fed from the new pump, arrangement being made so that when the pump is pumping more water than is actually required the balance will be pumped into the reservoir, the latter thus being kept at a proper level.

The numerous objections made by property owners in the neighborhood of the site whereon the high level tank is to be erected, to what they consider will be an unsightly object, has led the city to call for tenders not only for a steel tank and tower but also for one of concrete and steel. This, it is claimed will be ornamental in design, and if the cost is anything like what is estimated, it may be adopted. The tank will contain 100,000 gallons and will be kept supplied from the Yates street pumping station.

In some cases the bids were far in excess of the estimate which Mr. Adams made in his report but the lowest tenders are well within the estimate and should these latter be found satisfactory it is probable that a considerable amount will be saved. The estimate for the North Dairy pumping station plant was put by Mr. Adams at $21,000.

The following were the tenders received. For the engine and pumps at the North Dairy pumping station: Halliday Machinery company, $21,761; George A. Walkem & Co., Vancouver, $22,000; John Inglis & Co., Ltd., $17,850; R. P. Rither & Co., three tenders of the following makes of engines, Laidlaw, Dunn, Gordon Corliss, $20,672; Laidlaw, Bunn, Gordon, Meyer, $17,305; Snow Corliss, $29,675; Vancouver Engineering Works, $14,500; Lenfield & Kennedy, Ltd., Glasgow, $22,305; shipment within nine months; Allis-Chalmers Bullock company, $23,600; R. J. Knott, Victoria, alternative tenders, $18,660, $12,352, $15,281; John McDougall, Caledonia, Iron Works, $20,000, and two alternative bids of $16,000 and $28,000.

The tenders for the high level tank of both styles were as follows: McDougall & Jenkins, Victoria, $17,520; John Inglis & Co., $9,775; Hutchinson Bros. and Co., Victoria, $8,800; Westholme Lumber company, $11,400, steel and concrete, $16,500; Vancouver Engineering Works, $16,000, steel and concrete, $25,000; Ontario Wind Engine and Pump company, $8,777; C. Lennon, concrete and steel, $16,515; Marine Iron Works, Portland, $7,500; Halliday Machinery company, $8,226; Williamette Iron and Steel company, Portland, $8,495.

Garden Party Tomorrow.

A garden party for the congregation of the Metropolitan Church will be held tomorrow, Friday, on the grounds of Mr. A. Bell, No. 2412 Douglas Street, corner of Bay Street.

To Speak on Local Option.

Ald. James Hales, of Toronto, will on Thursday evening next deliver an address in the Metropolitan Church Sunday School, under the auspices of the Royal Templars of Temperance, when he will urge the claims of the Local Option movement to be considered as the best way of dealing with the liquor traffic problem. Ald. Hales, who is a Dominion Councillor of the Royal Templars, is making a tour of the farthest Canadian West in the interests of this method of settlement. Rev. J. E. Holling will take the chair.

The annual summer school and camp meeting for the Victoria district of the Methodist Church opened last evening in the City Park, Nanaimo, and will remain in session until Friday evening.

His Worship Mayor Planta cordially welcomed the delegates at a public reception, and a number of the ministers and laymen responded. Rev. John Robson, the president of the B.C. Conference, presided. Rev. J. E. Holling, B.A., preaches the sermon this evening, his subject being "Marked Men." Addresses will be delivered this afternoon by Rev. J. P. Hicks, of Esquimalt, on "Sunday School Problems," and by Rev. A. E. Roberts, on the "Thrift Plan of Finance," while a mission study class, the subject being "India," will be conducted by Rev. S. J. Thompson, of the Centennial Church of this city.

The Child and Manners.

How should the child be taught "manners"—by precept or example? One definition of manners is "the habitual practice of civility," and this seems to contain the spirit of the matter, where the child is concerned. To habituate the children to the practice of civility, it is certain they must see civility practiced habitually, by those about them, and always receive civil treatment themselves. That does not by any means imply that the child must always be allowed to do as he likes; the worst mannered children are the ones whose will is law to themselves and too often to the elders of the household. It is not being "uncivil" to a child, for instance, to punish him, deliberately and calmly, when punishment is necessary, but it is being decidedly uncivil to rebuke him openly "before company," for some petty fault. It may be argued that unless the rebuke follows on the offence the child will not understand or be impressed by it. That depends somewhat on the particular child. If the mother says to the boy as soon as she is alone with him, "Tommy, I was sorry to see that you didn't rise when Mrs. C. entered the room. I didn't say anything to you then because I did not wish to make you ashamed, but I do hope you will remember next time." Tommy is quite apt to appreciate his mother's consideration, and try to remember on future occasions. With other children a quiet word of reproof on the spot may have greater effect. At all events, if a quiet word does not suffice, it is certainly better to hide one's time and give an effective lesson at a convenient season, than to engage in a contest before the assembled company.

"Tell the lady 'Thank you!'" instructed a young mother, to whose little daughter a caller had given the rose she had been wearing. But for some reason, perhaps absorption in her new treasure, the child paid no attention. "Come, aren't you going to say 'thank you' to the lady for the pretty flower?" the mother coaxed. The baby glanced up at the caller in a contented little way, that probably meant gratitude, but not having said the proper thing at first, it no doubt seemed very difficult to say it on demand.

"If you don't say 'thank you' to the lady at once, I shall have to put you to bed," was the ultimatum. That settled it. The maid was summoned and bore from the room a rebellious and wailing lassie, while "the lady" wished in her heart she had thrown the unucky rose into the street.

A child who learns the use of "Thank you," "I beg your pardon," "If you please," etc., by hearing them habitually used, to himself as well as among older people, accepts and uses the phrases as he does other speech, and is not so apt to require prompting.

To Wash Chamolis Gloves

For travelling and general outing wear many people prefer chamolis gloves to either kid or silk. The gloves are still so soft and look as good as ever. Either the natural or white may be worn, but whereas the white chamolis gradually acquires a sort of greenish tinge by repeated washings the yellow or natural tint grows paler. Cheap chamolis gloves do not wash well.

The following directions for washing chamolis gloves are given in the New York Times:—

The washing should be carefully done in a lukewarm lather made with fine white castle soap, no soap being applied directly to the gloves. To this lather not less than a quart to a pair of gloves, a teaspoonful of olive or salad oil should be added. Thoroughly stirred, it will not show at all. The gloves are added and gently squeezed, either on or off the hands. When practically all the dirt is out, another suds, without oil, may be made and the process repeated, to be followed by two more clear lukewarm rinsings. The gloves should then be squeezed in a dry towel and finally shaken out and suspended in the air to dry.

At no time should the gloves be rubbed or wrung, but merely squeezed, as the materials are easily owing to its rough and porous finish. If washed and dried off the hands it is well that when about half dry they should be gently put on the hand to stretch, one at a time, and then as gently removed, taking great care not to tear the chamolis. When nearly dry the long arm parts may be rolled and gently wrung to soften them, and shaped by gentle pulling. The fingers and hands will shape themselves when donned, the loose tops will not.

It sounds like a lot of bother, but it is not really. In no event should the oil be omitted, allowing a teaspoonful of every quart of lukewarm water for the first bath. The water should never be more than warm, and the various waters should be of the same temperature. If hot water is used the gloves will shrink so as to be unwearable. The oil is absorbed by the leather and keeps it soft and pliable, so that it will not tear, renewing the dressing used in preparing the leather for the gloves.

Gathering on Machine.

Just why those persons who have no attachment on their machines for gathering should object to gathering on the machine is a mystery. It is certainly quicker and easier than doing it by hand and no stroking is necessary as there is when the gathering is done by hand. Anything can be easily and prettily gathered if the proper method is used, and it is by far the easiest. First lengthen the stitch and then tighten the tension. Formerly the popular method was to loosen the tension, but this is not nearly so satisfactory as tightening it. With but little practice one can learn to gather this tightening until but little after pulling up is necessary. This method throws the pulling thread to the thread here is desired. To loosen the tension means that a quantity of superfluous thread in the shape of looped stitches will be left, and this is a waste of cotton. The stitches should be lengthened according to the length which you wish your gathers to be. If you wish to have wide gathers the stitch need not be lengthened at all.

Table manners vary little from year to year, the exception being when new silverware is introduced. For instance, just now it is a fad to eat ice cream, which is frozen, with a fork instead of a spoon. The correct ice-cream fork is small, with three prongs and rather round. If the fork appears with the frozen dessert, do not make the mistake of asking for a spoon.

The question often arises as to what is to be done with the napkin in a hotel or boarding house when a guest remains for a week or more. Never fold your napkin when away from home. In a first-class establishment you will have a fresh napkin with every meal; if you do not, then let the maid fold the napkin. Just lay it lightly beside your plate at the conclusion of the meal.

HERE AND THERE

There is much that is puzzling to the women of Victoria in the discussion that is now going on about the water supply. There are questions of law and finance which take wiser heads than ours to arrange. But we know that water is needed. Our lawns are burned up. We cannot offer a visitor a glass of water without an apology. In many homes the tap for baths for the children, the grown-up members of the household has to be carefully arranged. In short, there is scarcely an hour of the day in which we are not reminded of the need that our city has of a better supply.

We are promised that by this time next year the service will be greatly improved. With larger pipes and new reservoirs we will be able to make the most of our present supply. If this work had been completed, as it should have been, by June of this year, we should now be in a better position. But the city is growing in all directions and even before the reservoirs are built and the new pipes laid the city will need all and more than all the water that will then be available.

Where are we going to get more and when? There is scarcely a woman in the city that would not be willing to contribute according to her means towards procuring a sufficient supply of pure good water. It is stated that at present there is at Goldstream more than four times as much water as we are now using in Victoria, and that this quantity can be increased. We know that this water is and always will be pure. Good water and plenty of it are to be had from this source. Can as good a supply be procured more cheaply elsewhere? If not, the question of water means should not be too difficult for the city council to decide. Nothing is to be gained by postponing the consideration of this matter. On the contrary, nothing can result from delay but loss to the city and discomfort and inconvenience to every member of the community.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward has written a letter to the London Times in which she contends that the failure of the woman's suffrage movement in the United States shows that the opponents of woman suffrage in England need not despair of final victory.

One thing Mrs. Ward's letter shows very clearly and that is, that women in England have far more influence in public affairs than have those on this continent. English women have an unquestioned right to sit on school boards and last year an act was passed enabling them to sit on local government bodies. In both countries the administration of charitable societies falls largely to the share of women but in all cases where the expenditure of public money is concerned English women undertake with men a share of the responsibility.

In the United States even school suffrage is not universal. It prevails in twenty-five states. In Connecticut and Ohio, Mrs. Ward says, its abolition has been discussed, and in five states it has failed to gain the privilege of school suffrage within the last three years. Neither in Boston nor in New York have women a place on the Board of Education. While Mrs. Ward regrets that women should be shut out from a field which she thinks might be particularly profitable, she believes that the result is "mainly due to the general disapproval and opposition which the woman suffrage movement has excited."

While Mrs. Ward is a strong opponent of giving the franchise to women she believes that there are many legislative matters which women should have a voice in settling. She says: "Nor would it be at all difficult to devise some further machinery, arising out of local government, by which the views and claims of women on those legislative matters before parliament which affect the interests of women—factory and hygienic legislation and the like—could be clearly and effectively expressed."

It is possible that Mrs. Ward has overestimated the strength and the universality of the woman's suffrage movement in the United States. When that movement was at its height, the vast majority of women in that country were too busy to take part in it. There was not then any large leisure class. With the great growth of wealth at a later time the attention of women was devoted rather to amusement than to public questions.

On the other hand, with the exception of the drink evil there were no great public questions which forced themselves on the attention of women. Whatever have been the causes there has never been such a general and systematic agitation for woman's suffrage in the United States as during the past year taken place in England. Mrs. Ward thus states the aims of the anti-suffrage league:

"But what we have to do now is to see to it that the present women's agitation, interfering as it does with the proper and respectful regard for those spheres where men are alone competent to act and must act, for the common benefit of the state, should meet with a speedy and effective opposition among women themselves. The work must be begun with energy and carried on with public and persistent perseverance. Proposals that effect will, I believe, soon be laid before the public."

The result of this contest between the women who desire to have a voice in the councils of the empire and those who are educational and philanthropic and social work will be watched with interest by the whole world.

There are many of the best things in the world which money cannot buy, and one of these is a happy and comfortable home. The skill, the business ability, the tact and the mother love that make the difference between a place to live in and a home cannot be bought with gold. Yet by how many simple souls are these gifts possessed and in what a variety of homes are they exercised! In the cottage of the laborer as in the mansion of the millionaire the hand of the true homemaker is at work ordering all things and her spirit is present sweetening, purifying and ennobling. Given in this busy prosaic world we must acknowledge that it is the love of wife and mother and of those who possess the mother instinct that enables women of all classes and of every degree of intellectual attainment to do this work successfully.

In Woman's Realm

There is in the current number of Harper's Magazine a curious and interesting article by Flora McDonald Thompson, which shows that no paid service is equal to that which the mistress of the house herself can render. The writer, who states that she is a professional woman, continued her work after marriage. After a time, for a variety of reasons, chief among which seems to have been her love of her children and her desire for their welfare, she determined to devote herself exclusively to housekeeping. She found that under her personal management the family could live on much less than before. She, however, liked her work and took it up again. She found that it was quite impossible to engage any woman who would perform her household duties as well and as economically as she had done and that it did not, even from a money point of view, pay as well to engage in work outside the home as within it. The writer points to the importance of what she calls unpaid labor, and she is called the practical in education. If they had their way our young men would leave school, trained mechanics, farmers or merchants and our young women be prepared as teachers, stenographers or be skilled in domestic science or dressmaking. Science, indeed, would have a place among their studies because a knowledge of its various branches would enable them to earn a living but nothing that did not make a man more of a money-making animal ought, such people think, to have a place in our schools. To this end, Latin and Greek are to be banished and the books of the great writers of the past, even in our own country, little considered.

The works of the great thinkers and writers upon which our civilization is founded are esteemed of small account by these apostles of the practical and the noble lives which have preserved the world from decay and ruin. If they had their way, soon be forgotten. It is not by such teaching that Canada is to attain greatness in the family of nations. It is not what a man has or does that makes him great but what he is. Canada's greatest heritage is the learning that has come down to her through the ages. On that the fabric of her education may be reared. Those who counsel her to neglect the wisdom that has come down to her through the centuries are taking upon themselves a grave responsibility. No material gains can compensate the loss of those men are mean in spirit and narrow in mind. While it may be granted that in this country and in this age the strong and skillful arm may help a man more to gain a livelihood than a well-cultivated mind, it must be remembered that the man in position of high body, in the truest sense, is a man whose life is more than meat and body than raiment.

A Washing Help.

Housewives who don't have stationary tubs may find of use this suggestion from my experience. A rubber tub (which may be purchased by the foot of any druggist) fits over the faucet at one end, while the other reaches into a tub. All the cold water I use is drawn in this way, the boiler being filled as well as the tubs. A housekeeper who has a hot water faucet could draw the hot water in this way as well as the cold. At one side of each tub close to the bottom a tiny hole was bored and fitted with a small plug. To make assurance doubly sure, I cover the plug with a cloth, drive it in with a hammer, and pour a little boiling water right over the plug after it is firmly in position. This hot water swells the wood and keeps the tub from leaking. When the tub needs emptying this plug is withdrawn by a pair of dentist's forceps (the most useful tool in the kitchen tool chest), a pall being placed under the hole beforehand. The water will flow into the pall without a fuss. When the tub is empty, the wood underneath the hole while emptying the water. This hole saves dipping the water up to put into the pall.

The rubber tubing is cheap, and lasts a long time when hot water isn't drawn through it. If a woman is frail she should fill all single pails of water with rubber tubing. It is easier to lift a pail of water from a chair by the sink, or even from the floor, than it is to lift it up over the sink board—this takes a distinct effort.

Keep an old stool or chair without a back (the latter is the more useful of the two), near the sink. On it can be set pails which are to be filled with water by the tub. It can hold the pail of water which is used to mop the floor, saving the constant stooping over to wring the mop, which makes mopping so tiresome. One may drop into it when preparing vegetables, it being a change from the high stool. Useful for numerous things besides.—Ruth Hartley, Hastings County, Ont.

One of the most famous dressmakers in Paris says that Ramesses II. set the fashion in tea gowns this year. "The Ramesses gown is one of the most comfortable designs possible," she says. "It is a long, tea gown with a cross-over bodice which resembles one of the fashionable boleros. I have made a gown of brilliant ultramarine, embroidered with a pattern of lotus flowers in dull malves and purples. Another Egyptian novelty is the introduction of long chains, which I have copied from old pictures."

There are three young people in the family of Mr. Taft. They are Robert Alphonse Taft, a sophomore at Yale; Miss Helen Taft, who enters Bryn Mawr next autumn, and Charlie Taft, who is ten years old. The young people are all clever, good looking and popular. Mrs. Taft is considered somewhat old-fashioned in her convictions, and is one of the very few Washington hostesses who still frown on Sunday entertainments, of which she thoroughly disapproves.

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES

Sauce for Nut Loaf

Cook one tablespoon chopped onion in one tablespoon butter. Add tablespoon flour and when well mixed add gradually one and a half cups strained tomato pulp, one-half teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper. Pour this boiling hot over the loaf and for an extra touch of deliciousness serve grated sage cheese with it.

Omelets

Omelets are a little more trouble than most ways of cooking eggs, but if successful they are good enough to compensate. The great secret of how to keep one from falling before it reaches the table lies in cooking it enough. Never use more than six eggs, and, if possible, confine yourself to four for each omelet. But six can be used if you are in a hurry, and have not time to make two. The eggs must be beaten separately with salt and a wire spoon or a fork—an egg beater does not make them puffy enough—and they should be beaten until the yolks are foamy and the whites can stand alone. They should then be put together as lightly as possible. Never beat them together, but cut and fold them. After the yolks have been partly beaten, salt may be added to them and one tablespoonful of rich milk to each egg. After the yolks and whites are well mixed, pour them into the hot spider, in which a teaspoonful of butter has been melted without being allowed to brown. Put the omelet over the hot fire until browned on the bottom, a stage you can recognize by lifting the edge with a turner, then put the spider into the oven and finish the cooking there. It should take about five minutes, and when a knife can be put in and taken out perfectly clean, the omelet is done.

When you have the foundation you can vary it in almost numberless ways. Nearly every kind of cooked vegetable may be mixed with the yolks before adding the whites, green peas, asparagus tips, or chopped mushrooms, being particularly nice. Tomato omelet may be made by spreading a layer of hot stewed tomatoes, well seasoned on the cooked omelet and folding it over. Chopped parsley is always good, and many like currant jelly spread over the same way as in a tomato omelet. A very pretty one is made by saving the white of two of the eggs, beating them stiff, and flavoring with a little lemon juice and, if a sweet omelet is liked two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Then cook them by sliding them on to a large shallow pan half filled with boiling water; cover and steam them about five minutes. When the omelet proper is done clip the cooked white on it and fold it over—Advocate.

Crystal Mints

Add to one pound pulverized sugar enough cold water to make a very thick paste. Wet the sugar all through, but do not have it in the least thin or watery. Bring to a boil, taking care to stir enough to keep from burning. The paste thins as it heats and it can be easily stirred. Just as it boils take it from the fire, put in a few drops of oil of peppermint, tasting the mixture to see when the flavor is strong enough. Go cautiously, as the oil is very powerful. Mix well so that the flavor goes all through the mixture, then drop from the end of the spoon on any hard smooth surface—a large plate will do. The mixture should form round drops that harden at once. If the sugar becomes too thick before you have the drops all made, heat again, and if absolutely necessary add a few drops of water, but be sparing of this or you will get the mixture too thin.

Dangers to the Pacific

While in many cases no dangers are connected with the use of a pacifier, in other cases the dangers are great. If the mother is naturally fastidious and careful for the health of her child there are often benefits to be gained from its use. For instance, it aids a child greatly when the tiny teeth are out. A very teaching time is so hard to bite on that it hardens the gums and makes it more difficult for the teeth to cut through, while the rubber pacifier affords the relief which the child seeks without making the gums at all hard.

In many cases the dangers are positively appalling. Just think of the times you have seen a baby drop its pacifier on the sidewalk, to be picked up and given to him again by the absent-minded nurse or mother who does not or will not realize what filth and germs may be clinging to the moist rubber. What sight can be more disgusting to the fastidious than to see a mother put the pacifier in her mouth to moisten it, and then give it to the child that she in an ignorant way is trying to shield from sickness and disease, and it is simply impossible for the mouths of even the most cleanly people to be perfectly clean and pure all the time.

OF INTEREST TO GIRLS

The girl whose hair is dry and who desires to look trim and neat will take comfort in the use of a good brillianine. A few drops of this can be rubbed on the palm of the hand. Then into this the brush is rubbed thoroughly, after which the hair is brushed vigorously until it shines. In this way very little oil is applied to the hair, yet it keeps its place when dressed and has the desired sheen.

Imported brillianine generally costs about 75 cents the small bottle, but the girl who will take time and buy good ingredients can secure excellent results by making up this formula: Castor oil, four fluid drams; sweet almond oil, three and one-half fluid ounces; glycerine, three and one-half fluid drams; Jockey Club extract, three fluid drams; alcohol, enough to make eight ounces.

Violet or any preferred extract can be substituted for Jockey Club.

The girl with oily hair must be especially painstaking about keeping it clean in hot weather. It should be shampooed at least once a week, and right here a word must be said against the inordinate use of ammonia, borax and washing soda for shampooing. To a basin of warm water soda or borax the size of a pea is sufficient and a dozen drops of toilet, not household, ammonia. To this should be added enough finely shaved white soap to make a thick lather. Many girls use a teaspoon of borax to a bowl of water, thinking they can thus prevent a future accumulation of oil in the scalp. The remedy is futile. The oil will come back, oozing from the pores, and borax, soda or ammonia is useful only to "cut" the oil if the water is hard, not to effect a cure.

A raw egg beaten lightly with a pint of tepid water and a good white soap will clean the scalp and do the hair less harm than the excessive use of the above-mentioned remedies.

The girl who bathes at seaside or inland resort should be very careful about freeing her hair from ocean or river water. Rinse it thoroughly if you get it wet during your plunge and dry it in the sun. Never lie down, night or day, with your hair wet. Shake and ventilate it in the sun. And between shampoos, if the hair is very oily, rub your brush into finely powdered orris root. This will remove some of the oil from the hair and insure a fragrant odor.

Shields should be changed daily in summer frocks, and it pays to buy wash shields only. These should be allowed to soak some time in tepid soap suds, then rinsed many times and finally dried in the sun. Do not iron them.—Chicago News.

BIG CUT IS MADE IN RATES

Fare Between Seattle and Vancouver Reduced From $1 to 25 Cents

MAY SECURE VICTORIAN

Rumors Current That Joshua Green is Negotiating for Old Car Ferry

Another heavy cut was made yesterday in the rate war, the fare between Seattle and Vancouver being reduced by the C.P.R. from $1 to 25 cents. Since the C.P.R., after efforts to settle the strike on a reasonable basis were exhausted, began to take the aggressive, things have happened quickly. The fare was brought down to 25 cents on the Victoria-Seattle route and now the Seattle-Vancouver business has been cut to 25 cents, making it possible for travelers to go between Victoria and Vancouver by way of Seattle for 50 cents. The fare for the direct journey is still $2.50. The new rate between Seattle and Vancouver was announced yesterday morning when a large banner appeared above the C.P.R. wharf at Pier A, Seattle, informing all and sundry that the fare to Vancouver was 25 cents. As the C.P.R. steamer does not return to Seattle direct the fare applies only to the journey from Seattle to Vancouver.

It was rumored yesterday that negotiations were in progress by the International Steamship company to acquire the old steamer Victorian for the Victoria-Seattle route. The steamer was built at Portland, Ore., in 1891, and after one excursion trip came to Puget Sound for the Victoria-Seattle route. The steamer was found unsuitable and it was found, too, that she was supplied with a hull too light for her powerful engines. In 1892 she went back to the Columbia river, and was secured by the Dodgells for the Victoria-Seattle route when that company had better boats. The same company now fighting the C.P.R., the fares then going as low as 25 cents. The Victorian has triple compound engines large enough for an ocean liner. After the Dodgells left the old-time Great Northern railway took over the Victorian and made her into a car-ferry steamer for the Sidney, New Westminster route. Since leaving this route the steamer has been tied up.

The steamer Princess Victoria is carrying big crowds these days. Since Sunday both steamers have brought 1704 passengers from Seattle, the Princess Victoria carrying about two-thirds of the number. On Sunday, the Princess Victoria carried a crowd of 993, and yesterday she brought 719. The Chippewa, which secured much of the overflow from the Princess Victoria on Sunday brought 830 on Sunday and 162 yesterday.

Since the cut was made on the Seattle-Vancouver route a massive cover was painted which practically covers the whole side of the warehouse at the Seattle wharf, and blazes forth the intelligence that the fare to Vancouver is 25 cents.

GLENFARG STARTS FROM YOKOHAMA FOR VICTORIA

Five Liners Now On the Way—Two Expected in Port Today—French Steamer Due

The steamer Glenfarg of the C.P.R. Oriental service left Yokohama yesterday at 7 a.m., bound to this port, she being the fifth steamer on the way from Japan to this port. The steamer Amiral Magon, one of the French round-the-world line, is due today from Havre via many ports of the Orient, leaving Yokohama fifteen days ago. She will load a large shipment of whale oil for her outward trip. The steamer Iyo Maru, of the Nippon Yusen kaisha, which is completing her cargo at Seattle, is expected to sail today for Hongkong and the usual ports of call in the Orient with a cargo of about 2500 tons of general freight. The steamer Kaga Maru, of the Japanese line, Capt. Lapraik, is expected to reach port tomorrow. The steamer Tremont and the Empress of Japan are also on the way, the latter being due on Friday. The steamer Oanfa of the Blue Funnel line was also expected to leave Yokohama yesterday for this port. The Oanfa has 2200 tons of freight, the largest consignments for some time for this port from the United Kingdom.

CARIBOO ARRIVES FROM BUILDER'S YARDS

New Steamer Comes for Union Steamship Company's Victoria-Prince Rupert Service

The steamer Cariboo, of the Union Steamship company, the new vessel built for the Vancouver company by the Ailsa Shipbuilding company of Ayr, Scotland, for use on the Victoria-Prince Rupert route alternating with the steamer Camosun in a semi-weekly service, reached William Head quarantine station yesterday afternoon in charge of Capt. Polkinghorne, who brought the new steamer from the Clyde in 87 days. The Cariboo, which is a steamer similar in build to the well known Camosun, made calls at Barry, Montevideo, and Coronel for coal on the way. The steamer was met off Victoria by the local agent, Mr. Lamont, and proceeded to Vancouver where it will be in service.

The steamer Otter leaves this morning in the place of the steamer City of Nanaimo on the Victoria-Comox route. The City of Nanaimo, which is in Active Pass and broke all four blades from her starboard propeller. She has been docked for repairs.

SURVIVORS OF BLACKBIRDING TRIP

Gilbert Islanders Who Waited Years for Steamer Being Repatriated

Survivors of 500 Gilbert Islanders taken on the steamer Montserrat by the late Capt. D. O. Blackburn, concerning whose blackbirding trips, much was printed in the Colonist of eighteen years ago, nineteen South Sea Islanders reached Victoria by the steamer City of Puebla yesterday morning from Champerico, Guatemala, and were taken on board the steamer Princess Victoria to Vancouver where they will await the sailing of the steamer Aorangi which takes them to Suva, from where they will be sent to their island homes. There were ten men, their ages ranging from a youth of 16 who never saw his homeland, to an old grey-haired patriarch of 80 years, who was one of the "recruited" islanders. There are five women, three of whom were toddlers when they were carried away by the Montserrat, and four children, born on the coffee fincas of Guatemala, two of them babies.

"Eighteen years ago Capt. Blackburn came with the steamer Montserrat," said grizzled old Ten Tabeti, the old leader of the band, who with his wife, N. R. Tabeti, formerly, also, four years of age, have long dreamed of their island home they had given up hope of seeing when the far-reaching British government was interested concerning them. "He came with big steamer and we went off with canoes when she lay off the villages. Capt. Blackburn came ashore and made good talk. He told us if we want to go to Mexico we get good money by cutting coffee canals. It is good talk and he has no trouble to get plenty of men. We sign a paper to work for three years and he say he will bring a steamer then and take us home again. "But he never come again."

The old man remembered the long years of waiting, the deferred hope, and then the despair. "We wait when the three years work is done," said he, "but Captain Blackburn never come back. When we came to San Francisco we hear he is drowned near this place in a big storm. Perhaps that's why he no come back."

Now that the islanders are on their homeward way, past regrets and the long vigils of the watchers who waited for a steamer that would never come are forgotten; there is no mourning, no anger. They were sorry to hear Capt. Blackburn was drowned—he went down with all his crew when the overladen colliers Montserrat and Keenewah sank off Capeattery on December 6, 1894.

"We were not stolen from our homes," said Jun Tusit. "That is not true talk. Capt. Blackburn ask us if we want to go and we go. We sign for three years, but we never see our case and send us home. Five hundred men go away on the Montserrat. Three hundred are dead. Some go away. Just us few left. Some never see Gilbert Islands. They don't care so much; but we old men who remember are glad we are going back home. There will be big feast when we come back."

Another, who spoke in halting English, told of the work on the coffee fincas of Guatemala, not far from Champerico. They were herded on plantation camps and were given five Mexican dollars a month with their food as wages for cutting the coffee. Now, they explained, the price of commodities was becoming so dear in Guatemala that five dollars could not keep them in scant clothing. All they wanted was a pair of trousers and a hat, but trousers now cost fifteen dollars (Mexican dollars) at the plantations store.

The nineteen, it seems, are the second consignment repatriated by the British government. About nine years after the waters closed over the Montserrat and Capt. Blackburn, some official discovered that a band of Gilbert Islanders pined for their south sea homes in Central America and when it was learned that they were still held by the planters under a three-year contract that had expired years before, a schooner was sent to carry them back to the Gilberts. These were those who remained and the British government interested in their case instructed the consul at San Jose de Guatemala to arrange to repatriate them. They were sent to San Francisco by the steamer City of Para which made a slow passage, with the result that they failed to make connection with the steamer President and failed to arrive in time.

Canadian-Australian steamer Marama. They will go into the detention shed at Vancouver to await the sailing of the steamer Aorangi about a month hence. At Suva, where they will be taken, the British authorities will make arrangements to send them to the Gilbert Islands by a schooner.

SUNGARI EXPECTED TO BE FREED SOON

Russian Steamer Held for Debt at Guaymas for Many Months May Be Released

Since last November, when she arrived from Japan via San Francisco, the Russian steamer Sungari has been lying in the harbor of Guaymas, Mexico, listed for Puget Sound. She has not yet left, but according to recent word from the Mexican port, Captain Preede has hopes that his troubles will soon be at an end and that the long delayed funds, which have for months been obtainable, will soon arrive to release his vessel from bondage.

For the better part of a year the Sungari has not turned her propeller, because she is so plastered with libels that she cannot leave port. Even had she desired to escape paying her debts, there was not sufficient coal in her bunkers to steam her out of the harbor. Consequently she had lain idle in a semi-tropical port, while her master has anxiously awaited each mail, hoping vainly that the owners would send enough money to send the tramp on her way.

Coal bills and chandlery bills accumulated until the vessel was so deeply in debt that she was forced to wait at Guaymas for funds to be sent from the home office. In the meantime the rusty tramp has become rustier; the barnacles have found a fine place to lodge on her hull bottom, while gradually the gear has become rusty. Such is the fate of the unfortunate vessel—in debt and unable to get money, much less credit.

The Sungari was chartered to load wheat for the United Kingdom at Tacoma last winter. Her cancelling date was December 15. Frantically her master tried to get his vessel released, but the Guaymas creditors were obdurate and she was unable to leave port. Consequently she lost a cargo that would have netted her a neat profit.

News has now been received from Guaymas that the master of the Sungari was in hopes that his owners would send him a draft sufficient to cover the debts, so that the tramp can leave Guaymas, where she is now regarded as one of the pioneer inhabitants. She will likely come north as soon as she can get sufficient coal, after paying the other bills.

The Sungari belongs to the Far Eastern Steamship & Navigation Company of Vladivostok. The steamer was formerly the Tiberius, under the German flag. During the recent war in the Orient the Russian government chartered a large fleet of tramp steamers to freight coal into Vladivostok. It was a dangerous undertaking and many of the owners held out for freights that would pay for each vessel on every voyage, for the chances of being captured by the Japanese were great. In many charters of this kind it was stipulated that should the vessel arrive safely at Vladivostok the Russian government was to purchase the steamer at a given price.

The Tiberius successfully ran the blockade and arrived at the Siberian port. She was then turned over to the Russians and renamed Sungari. Several other tramps were bought by the Russian government under the same circumstances, among them the following: Anur, formerly the German steamer Absolon; Ussuri, formerly German steamer Elsa; Dnieper, formerly German steamer Tingshow; Yensel, formerly British steamer Shah-zada; Neva, formerly German steamer Blanca; Selenga, formerly German steamer Chaudus; Volga, formerly German steamer Schlessen.

The steamers Elsa and Tingshow belonged to the Jenson fleet of Hamburg. Captain B. Schonwandt, now in this country, was master of the Elsa for three years and later Captain F. Jensen, of Jenson and Ostrander, was in this same steamer. The Blanca belonged to the same Hamburg line, as the well-known German ships Seerose and Seestern. For years this vessel, which had a refrigerator plant, spent the summer at Nicolaevsk, returning to Hamburg in the fall with a cargo of frozen fish.

The Russians named their newly acquired fleet of tramps after Russian Siberian rivers and organized the Far Eastern Company. Several naval officers were interested in the corporation and it was planned to pay off 10 per cent. of the cost annually. However, judging by the Sungari's experiences, the company has not been making money very rapidly, and it is evident that the original idea has not been bettered. It is possible, however, that the Sungari may find her way to Puget Sound in time for fall loading, a year later than when first expected.

TRANSIT ENTERS THE ESQUIMALT DRYDOCK

Had a Stronous Time in the Ice Pack of Bering Sea on Way to Cape Nome

The Norwegian steamer Transit reached Esquimalt early Sunday morning and yesterday went into the Esquimalt dry dock to have repairs made. The Transit, which left here on June 1 with 425 passengers, was in the ice of Bering sea from June 8 to 23, when Capt. Danielson, after trying to force through blind leads for days finally made his way through to Cape Nome. Two holes were broken in his steamer's bow, and two plates were dented.

The Transit left the other steamers of the Nome fleet behind and was first to reach the ice floes, which this season were heavier than previously known. Day and night—for night drifting was the most of the time—the steamer was worked into leads, while Capt. Danielson and his officers tried their eyes to the utmost, staring into the waste of ice seeking a lane of clear water. Fog often made the situation even more arduous. Then it was difficult to watch for floating floes, two of which struck the steamer's bow and broke holes in the plates. Other steamers were seen in the ice, but their masters seemed to be anxious to avoid each other and the Transit, one night during the steamer Senator's whistle was heard, and afterward she was seen creeping up a lane of open water behind the Transit.

On June 12 the steamer was worked close toward Nome and Capt. Danielson thought his vessel had made her way through when the ice field closed in and he was forced shut again. It was a strenuous time, the officers and crew being constantly on watch ready for emergency. For some time caught between the floes would have little opportunity to escape disaster. If the steamers continue to go to Cape Nome through the ice it is generally conceded that disaster will occur sooner or later, and the steel steamer caught in the ice will have little chance of saving any of those on board. To take to the boats or get on the ice would be of little avail.

The passengers behaved well. They played cards, black-jack chiefly, and night after night the deal tables in the 'tween decks were surrounded by men whose faces were tense and speech low. Hundreds of dollars changed hands, and a gang of professional gamblers who went north on the steamer were considerably richer when they reached Cape Nome than when they started. They were hopeful, even on the day when the steamer was rushed below to shove and dress up—they expected to land at Nome in a few hours.

But the steamer was then heading back southward out of the ice floes. The steamer Yucatan was met and some provisions secured, those on the Transit running low. Toward the close of the voyage the passengers were on short rations. After many experiences, the steamer's usefulness, and many dangers the steamer sailed for passengers at Cape Nome on June 23. All the steamers suffered more or less, even the Ohio, which Capt. Conrad kept out of the ice as much as possible, taking 43 days to reach Cape Nome. For this delay the captain has been roundly condemned, but officers of the Transit consider this censure most uncalled for. Capt. Conrad took care to keep the lives of his passengers from being endangered as far as possible, and for this he is being criticized because he occupied longer in reaching Cape Nome," said one of them; "If he had lost his ship there might have been some cause for censure, but not for keeping it safe."

According to whalers engaged in the northern waters the movement of ice in that section has always been peculiar; but never have they known it as heavy as this year. In 1889 when Capt. Porter, now in command of the some liner Victoria, was in charge of the whaler Freeman, he was bound south with the Orea and Belvedere, when the whaler Navaruch was caught in the ice and abandoned N.N.W. of Point Barrow. On the trip south, while crossing Smith Bay, to the eastward of Point Barrow, Captain Porter saw the Navaruch in a mirage, as she was drifting to the north. On September 22, when about 80 miles S.S.W. of Point Barrow, the Orea, Freeman and Belvedere were caught in the pack and the former two crushed. The Belvedere managed to back out and got in the ice of Sea Horse Island, where she went into winter quarters at Point Barrow, where they were relieved in the following spring by Captain Jarvis and Dr. Call, of the revenue cutter service. Captain Porter states that after seeing the Navaruch in September he did not expect to again lay eyes on her, but to his surprise they saw her again drifting with a heavy pack in the latter part of October, south of Point Barrow. She again disappeared to the westward, but like the cat came back in January, and was shoved into the ground ice in what Captain Porter says was their front door. It seems providential that the Navaruch should be landed so close to the winter quarters of these imprisoned men, as she had about some supplies and a quantity of coal which was needed more than anything else. Arrangements were at once made to transport the coal from the ship to the settlement, but after they had got but a small quantity out one of the sailors set fire to the ship, and the dreams of warmth went glimmering. Captain Porter tells his experience simply to show what might happen to a vessel caught and held in the ice pack in this country. Of course the Navaruch was a staunch wooden ship, and built to buck ice. An iron ship caught in the pack might be carried along for a time in safety, but when the pack separated she would probably go down with a thud.

LIGHTKEEPER RESIGNS

Thomas Paterson Will Leave Post Long Held at Cape Beale on Island Coast

Thomas Paterson, who for many years has had charge of the light house at Cape Beale, and who, with his wife, Mrs. Minnie Paterson, has done so much in aid of shipwrecked mariners and to save life, has tendered his resignation as lightkeeper. Paterson's trip over the sodden trail to send the mail to save Capt. Allison and nine men from the wrecked Coloma and the work of her husband and herself, when the Valencia went ashore was a great deal of praise.

The steamer City of Puebla of the Pacific Coast Steamship company reached port yesterday morning from San Francisco with a full cargo of freight, mostly fruits and vegetables for this port and 100 salmon and 116 steerage passengers. The steamer Governor sailed south last night with 230 passengers.

city, guests at the Empress hotel. They all expressed themselves delighted with Victoria's beauty and the excellence of the Empress hotel.

Training Ship Accident.
Cleveland, Ohio, July 18.—Several men on the training steamer Hawk were badly scalded today by the bursting of a steam pipe. Charles Taylor, assistant engineer, will probably die as a result of his injuries. The Hawk was lying at anchor at the Cleveland breakwater when the accident occurred.

and the friends of the school at the Poplars. After Miss Messenger had read her report of the term's work and examinations, Miss Archbutt announced that Clarice Gray had received information that she had passed, with second-class honors, the senior grade for piano playing in the examination in music recently held here by Professor Aldous on behalf of the University of Toronto. After the presentation of a prize to her and one for improvement in singing to Florence Smith, the programme was proceeded with, and it soon became evident that the attention and interest of the audience were fully aroused; each succeeding item winning more and more marks of approval.

Where all did so well it is difficult to select for special mention, but in music, Clarice Gray, Dorothy Cobble, Olive Day, and Margaret Macdowall especially distinguished themselves, the former's rendering of her two solos being particularly brilliant. Olive Day's reading of a passage from Sesame and Lilies was much admired for its correct emphasis and purity of enunciation. The two French plays by the junior and senior girls respectively were also remarkable for fluency and correct pronunciation, as well as for fresh and spontaneous acting. But it was perhaps in the Cranford play "Miss Barker's Tea-Party," that the greatest effort was gained. Margaret Macdowall enacted "Miss Betsy" with the most delightful old-world simplicity and was a favorite from the first moment. As each quaint old lady appeared on the scene, the pleased exclamations grew louder and louder, until the star of the evening, Peggy, Mrs. Jamieson's peaceful but decidedly audible slumbers were much enjoyed and elicited delightful laughter. The quaintly picturesque costumes of the girls added largely to the charming effect of the whole scene.

After a few graceful and appreciative words from Canon Beauland, the National anthem was sung and the company adjourned to the garden for tea and refreshments. Here also the ladies and their pupils received renewed congratulations on the splendid success of the afternoon's entertainment. The full programme is appended:

LETTERS TO EDITOR

The Water Question.

Sir—You deserve much commendation for the manner in which you have struggled to have our aldermen swim with the stream, and not against it. As a common business proposition there can be little doubt as to the least expensive and most sensible way of proceeding, viz: Buy the water from the Goldstream company under the provisions of its charter. To this suggestion no doubt the reply will be now as it has been in the past, "that the city should own its own water supply." Such a reply would be fallacious.

All articles we wear, eat and drink are not ours—but we purchase and they become ours—so with water. To use an argument I have used before: It makes no difference to the consumer from whom he or she buy water. The citizens on the security of whose property hundreds of thousands have been borrowed, and out of whose pockets thousands are taken every year to pay interest and other charges, do not receive more favorable treatment from our city council than they would at the hands of a company. In buying from the Goldstream company the city would be relieved of a large expenditure and could make a handsome profit on the payments to the company, which will be the best way of bringing our city authorities to consider seriously business principles. The common custom is to deal in public matters as if they were private, but we know how futile that has been—the majority of those who come to such meetings are as dumb as oysters. If they have ideas they do not express them. This should not be. We have thousands of respectable citizens who should take an active, intelligent share in such an important question as water, an element as necessary as bread.

W. J. MACDONALD.

Spoken Lightly of a Woman's Name.

Sir—In your Sunday's (yesterday's) editorial, speaking of Monsigneur Bishop Morel, an Eyoque of the Roman church diocese in Canton as numbering over a million, you are pleased to note that the talented gentleman called upon "Mrs. Moore of this city, who is a Chinese lady, and as he, of course, speaks Chinese fluently, they had a long and very interesting conversation."

You will oblige us by inserting this letter and correcting this misstatement, as Mrs. C. F. Moore votes at an election for mayor, and as none but British subjects can do so it follows that Mrs. C. F. Moore is not, and must not be written or spoken of as Chinese, in contradiction to the law of nations or opinion of H. M. minister at Peking, expressed to her; The children following the nationality of the father, myself, and that is certainly English, if Manchester born gives it. The statement of being Chinese is entirely false. You cannot well speak of an Englishman as a Scotchman, and by the same understanding Mrs. Moore is of Manchu origin, not Chinese. The Manchus being a nobler governing race than the Chinese they conquered. You must surely understand, Mr. Editor, that versions like the one noted, are irritating, and should cease; if persisted in can only give rise for aid at the hands of justice.

C. F. MOORE.

Went Down to Death Still Smoking

Passenger of Steamer Santa Clara Tied Wrist to Rope and Sprang Overboard

Despite the efforts of several members of the crew, Michael Bacovitch, a steamer passenger on the steamship Santa Clara, jumped overboard and was drowned about twenty miles west of Dungeness, last Saturday.

Bacovitch was twice hauled out of the water, but fought his rescuers and plunged overboard for the third and last time.

Men on the ship who aided in the rescue work say that the man never forgot the desperation with which the miner resisted their efforts to prevent him from committing suicide. The rescuers thwarted Bacovitch's plan for a complacent end. As if he had become imbued with Hedda Gablers advice to Tesman to kill himself "beautifully," if he did it at all, Bacovitch conceived and attempted to execute an idea which, to some extent, at least, would have minimized the horror of the act itself.

Tying his right wrist with a rope which was made fast to the ship, Bacovitch jumped overboard and swung across the ship. He had filled and lighted his pipe, and while he was drawn through the water he calmly smoked his pipe. In a little while the Santa Clara would have been towing a suicide. Ray Shade, an oiler, however, discovered Bacovitch and gave the alarm. The men were astounded when they saw the miner pulling smoke from his pipe while within the shadow of death.

They hauled him on the ship, but no sooner had his feet touched the deck than he began to fight desperately. Breaking away, he went overboard again, and swung out until the rope was taut. Shade and his mates hauled him in again, and the struggle was repeated. They overpowered Bacovitch and took the rope from his wrist, intending to put him in irons. Bacovitch was apparently resigned to his fate, thus throwing the men off their guard for a moment. His determination to die, however, was undiminished, and, seeing a chance, he broke away and went over the railing the third time. A boat was lowered, but the water closed over the man and he was seen no more.

Bacovitch came down from Valdez, having been in Southeastern Alaska for several years. It is said that he had a draft for a considerable sum of money on his person.

The Norwegian steamer Cecil is expected to reach the outer wharf during the coming week with nitrate for the Victoria Chemical works. The Cecil has a shipment which was to have been brought by the steamer Mathilde, which passed up to Tacoma yesterday to unload 2,500 tons of ore.

A steam whaler is being built at the Heath shipyards at Tacoma for the Whale Products Company, a whaling concern organized on Puget Sound.

The tug Sadie brought a shipment of spring salmon and sockeyes to port yesterday, from the traps of J. H. Todd & Sons, the spring salmon being landed at Wesely's packing plant and the sockeyes at the cannery at Esquimalt.

The tug Lorne took the ship Senator from Royal Roads to Esquimalt harbor yesterday and will take the schooner Little Bennett to Nanaimo today, the charterer arranging for the towage to have the balance of her salt discharged at the coal port. The Lorne will then proceed to the Sound to tow the Russian ship Dundee to sea.

Recommending the need of a public hall, the villagers of Bickleton-De-Wilow, four miles from Grantham, Lincs, intend erecting such a building in their spare time and without outside assistance. The cost of the materials for building the hall—between £200 and £250—will, it is hoped, be raised by public subscriptions.

Miss Norma K. Straubenzee, well known in Bedford, says: "Every year I was attacked with Asthma. I used every medicine I ever heard of, and treated with many good physicians. I was able to get relief, but never a permanent cure. When a bad attack came on I was afraid to go to sleep, the coughing and choking were so severe. Catarrhazone cured me, and for more than a year I haven't been bothered." Catarrhazone invariably cures Asthma and Catarrh; 35c, 50c and $1.00 sizes; the latter is guaranteed. Sold everywhere.

DREDGING RESULTS IN YUKON COUNTRY

Good Profits Found at Forty-Mile—Many Machines Now at Work

Vancouver, July 20.—A prominent Yukon mining operator has been advised by telegraph that dredging operations in that district are being carried on this season on an unprecedented scale. In the past two or three seasons the work has been more of an experimental character. The operator referred to was also notified that one modern dredge at Forty Mile, working only two-thirds speed owing to high water in the Yukon river, is extracting $2000 worth of gold daily. The ground averages 95 cents a cubic yard.

FISHERMEN LOST

Skeena River Boats Disappear in Big Storm and Are Thought to Have Capsized

Prince Rupert, July 20.—As a result of a big wind storm two fishing boats with their occupants are now missing, and up to the present time no trace of either men or boats has been found. Although the shores of the mainland and the different islands have been searched as far north as Port Simpson, but without success.

The missing boats, which belonged to the Balmoral cannery, on the Skeena river, above Port Essington, were each manned by two Japs, who, with a large number of boats, were fishing near the mouth of the Skeena, well outside, and where there is a large stretch of open sea.

The storm came on suddenly and scattered them in all directions, but those who saw it in time managed to run safely before it and were driven at a terrific speed. They succeeded in reaching shelter in Prince Rupert harbor some twenty miles distant from the fishing grounds, where they sold their catch and waited until the storm abated. The general impression is that the missing boats were capsized by a sudden gust of wind and driven out to sea, and there seems to be little doubt but that all the occupants were drowned. The tug Nettle N. is still continuing the search in the hope of picking up some trace of the missing men.

PRINCE RUPERT WORK

Grand Trunk Pacific Concludes to Make Cut "Through to Daylight" on Rook Bluff

Prince Rupert, July 20.—Another change has been made in the plans of the Grand Trunk Pacific in regard to construction work at Prince Rupert.

Instead of making a through cut, a passage wide enough to admit of one track only through the first big rock bluff on Ross & Carlson's contract, the company has now decided to make it a "through to daylight cut," which means that the whole bluff from grade level on the waterfront through to the south line on the right of way will be taken out and filled into the space between the bluff and the wharf making ground which will be used as terminals.

Instead of 40,000 cubic yards of rock which was to have been taken out, nearly 100,000 cubic yards will now be displaced. Ross & Carlson will shortly put extra gangs to work along the face of the bluff, and a much better showing will be made. The change in the plans, besides making it easier for the station men now at work, should give employment to at least 200 additional men on this piece of work.

OYSTER CULTURE

Vancouver Company Hopes to Build Up Large Business on Flats of Mud Bay

Vancouver, July 20.—A Vancouver organization known as the Crescent Oyster company, has hopes of making a success of oyster culture on the mud flats of the city. Evidence has been found that long ago there were many native oysters on the flats, but they had been nearly exterminated by the parasite known as the "drill." By clearing the ground of these enemies and taking precautions against their ravages, it is supposed that the beds can be restored to their former condition. The company has also gone into the eastern oyster business on a large scale, bringing out young bivalves and maturing them on the flats. It is also hoped that the eastern oyster will be induced to propagate on beds prepared by means of throwing up a dyke across the flats.

Near Drowning.

Vancouver, July 20.—Miss Bingham, a member of a yachting party, had a narrow escape from drowning yesterday. She fell off a boom of logs.

Drowned in Nechaco.

Vancouver, July 20.—While en route to the upper Nechaco country, Walter Groneweg, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, was drowned last Thursday in the Nechaco river. His partner succeeded in saving himself when the raft which both men were on capsized. The men were land hunters.

Funeral Largely Attended

New Westminster, July 20.—The funeral of the late William Robertson, who died at Royal Jubilee hospital, Victoria, Thursday, at the age of twenty-seven, took place yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. S. Henderson officiating. The pallbearers were C. S. Cooke, H. J. Barth, E. Hould, E. S. O'Donovan, Otway Wilkie, and G. B. Corbould, all ex-members of the South African contingent to which deceased had belonged. Many floral tributes were placed on the casket.

South Vancouver Clerk.

Vancouver, July 20.—The South Vancouver municipal council decided at its regular monthly meeting on Saturday that it would spend no more time over selecting a municipal clerk and elected G. H. Penke to fill the vacant post. This choice has been made after a hotly debated session

GRANBY ACQUIRES ANOTHER PROPERTY

Golden Eagle Claim Purchased—Brooklyn Mine in Good Position

Phoenix, July 20.—Another mining claim was this week added to the already large holdings of the Granby Consolidated. On Thursday the deal was put through with W. R. Williams whereby the company acquired the Golden Eagle fraction. The Golden Eagle is about a half claim and adjoins the Granby property, also adjoining the Stenwinder and Montezuma, at the northern part of the camp. No development work has been done on the claim, but it is considered to be a valuable acquisition to the Granby properties. The C.P.R. spur from the Brooklyn mine runs through the fraction. The consideration is not given out by the company, but it is understood to be in the neighborhood of $12,000. The Golden Eagle has been held by Judge Williams since 1896.

Since locating the new strike on the mine have been largely augmented and a considerable amount of development work will be carried on. One hundred and eighty tons were shipped on Thursday from the Brooklyn, and by next week 200 tons daily will be shipped from the new strike. Asked as to the new ledge of ore struck Superintendent Rundberg said: "The Brooklyn has the best gold values of any mine in camp. The assays of the new lead located last week ran $4.40 to $4.60 gold, 40 cents to 60 cents silver and 2.2 per cent. copper. The ore looks first class, and there is an extensive body of it." The new lead has been located on the 250, 150 and 80-foot levels and runs north and south parallel with the Brooklyn Idaho underground workings. Some 150 feet of drilling has already been done and the ledge is widening in fine shape. Crosscutting is now being done to discover the width. The lead is thought to extend northward into the company's Montezuma claim, and drifting will be pushed. Raising on the ledge has been commenced from the 350-foot level, and shipping will start on Monday. The entire ore body is all virgin ground and superintendent Rundberg is most enthusiastic as to the results of the exploratory work being carried on.

Active development work is being done at the Rawhide. "It looks better than ever," said Mr. Rundberg. "Every shot put in indicates better prospects. The Rawhide will be in shape to ship 1,000 tons daily when the copper market improves."

There is at present some 500 tons of ore on the Athelstan dump. The ore has to be teamed one and a half miles to the Winnipeg for shipment by the C.P.R. Athelstan ore runs about $8 per ton, and is required at the smelter for fluxing.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

Party at Work in Similkameen Valley Making Good Progress—Camp Hedley Geology

Hedley, July 20.—The geological survey party are making good progress these days, and particularly so in view of the difficult character of the ground they are covering.

The topography work is being done by Mr. Reinecke, who has this year joined the Canadian survey. Mr. Reinecke is a native of Cape Colony, South Africa, and has seen much of the world in various climates. He has been for three years on the United States geological survey, but preferring to get on the British side of the line he has joined the Canadian survey in Camp Hedley. While having more experience in geological work than in topography, he has done a great deal of topography, but has not often run up against as difficult ground as he is now doing in the Bradshaw canyon; but notwithstanding the difficult ground they are making excellent progress.

Mr. Cummins and assistants are busy working out the geology and plotting it on the topographical sheets. The geological problem of Camp Hedley becomes more interesting as well as more complex day by day as they work it out, and the ramifications of the topographic among the sedimentary looks on the map like a huge octopus.

When they complete the sheet undertaken last summer, they expect to go up the Tulameen for some special work that has been left out from their connection with platinum deposits.

INCREASES OUTPUT

B. C. Copper Company Now Shipping a Carload of Copper Daily—Improvements at Smelter

Greenwood, July 20.—The B. C. Copper company is now shipping a carload of copper a day, and with the increased facilities which are being added steadily to the company's mines will be able in the future to maintain this exceptional shipment. At the Mother Lode four new self-dumping train cars were put in operation this week and five more are under order. The new station at the Mother Lode, which is expected to be completed at the end of this month, will provide practically unlimited power for the big compressors and allow the company to run at full capacity. The Mother Lode will then be able to increase its shipments to 2,000 tons per day.

On account of the steadily increasing tonnage at the smelter, 25 additional men were this week put on at the Oro Denoro and the tonnage from there will be kept up in proportion to that from the other mines at the very exceptional figure it has maintained most of the time since the recent reopening of the smelter.

Coke is now coming in very satisfactorily, transportation facilities are better than ever and the prospects for the company's operations throughout the summer are better than ever before.

Lifeguard Soap—Disinfectant—Is strongly recommended by the medical profession as a safeguard against infectious diseases.

REV. DR. MAGILL

Principal of Pine Hill Presbyterian College Leaves for His Nova Scotia Home

Vancouver, July 20.—Among the passengers on the eastbound Imperial limited on Saturday afternoon was Rev. Dr. Magill, principal of Pine Hill Presbyterian college, Halifax, N. S. Five years ago he was appointed to the chair of systematic theology in that institution, and on the appointment of Principal Falconer to Toronto university he succeeded to the principalship.

In the short time he has held the position he has become one of the best known public men of the maritime provinces, and this year was appointed by the Nova Scotia government chairman of a committee to study the working of an eight-hour day wherever it is in vogue, with a view to introducing legislation along these lines in Nova Scotia.

Dr. Magill has been acting professor of systematic theology during his stay in Vancouver, at Westminster college, which has already brought so many distinguished men to the city.

Royal Templars.

Vancouver, July 20.—On Tuesday afternoon the members of the Royal Templars of Temperance of Vancouver and New Westminster will hold a picnic at Stanley park in honor of Ald. Jas. Hales, of Toronto, grand councillor. In the evening, beginning at 8.30 o'clock, a rally will be held in the Sons of England hall, when Ald. Hales will deliver an address and a concert programme given.

North Vancouver Water.

North Vancouver, July 20.—Specific demands for the water mains for the new town district were submitted and discussed at the meeting of the district council last Friday night. The mains are to be of wooden pipe, wire wound, 8 inches and 6 inches in diameter. They are to withstand a hydrostatic pressure of 300 feet head to the square inch. The pipes are to be laid eighteen inches below the surface and are to be guaranteed for five years. The pipe line road is to be ten feet wide and the pipe will be 19,000 feet in length.

Lynx Disposed of Port Hammond, July 20.—Farmers have been losing a lot of poultry lately through the depredations of lynx, and Miss E. Isaac, of the Fraser river town was instrumental in getting one of these pests killed recently. As she had lost several hens Miss Isaac kept watch and saw a lynx come from the henhouse with a fine hen in his mouth. Miss Isaac and two dogs gave chase through hayfields and cow pastures and the lynx dropped its victim and took to the timber but Miss Isaac kept up the chase and finally the lynx stopped and glared at its pursuers from the branches. Miss Isaac shouted for help and kept the lynx treed for an hour until her brother reached the scene with a shotgun and killed the animal.

BIG HILL TUNNELS

Contractors Now Through About Half of Necessary Work—Adding to the Force

Revelstoke, July 20.—About one-half the tunnelling work on the C.P.R. line between the Hazelton and the Bulkley cut the famous Big Hill grade in half, has already been performed, and the contractors, Messrs. Macdonell & Gzowski, of Vancouver, are now doubling their equipment so that it may be finished by the end of the present year. It is expected that the New Hazelton Day train will run through the two big tunnels, and the diverted section of the railway which will carry the approaches to the long bores from east and west.

Altogether about one mile and a quarter of tunnelling is embraced in both bores. Work has been proceeding at four faces of the tunnels since a start was made. These tunnels besides being almost complete circles, carry through their length a 2.2 per cent. grade, and the driving of them is no mean engineering problem.

Steam shovels are now to be installed in both tunnels so that the rock may be handled more expeditiously after blasting, the great desire being that the work shall be hurried along as rapidly as possible.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

And Coal Economy

COMBUSTION taking place in the dome or top chamber of furnace fire-pot is the result of air and heat mingling with fumes. This combustion produces heat-energy, which the radiating surfaces above and around fire-pot absorb or draw in and then deflect or throw off. Incoming cold air receives this heat-energy, the result being heated air. Now, if the combustion takes place at a faster rate than the radiating surfaces can absorb and deflect, the surplus heat-power will pass up the chimney or into cellar—a waste of coal.

There is no waste of coal in "Sunshine" Furnace. Circuit of radiator so complete, and air-circulating space so large, that every bit of heat-energy is quickly absorbed and quickly deflected on the circulating cold air, which is thus quickly heated and ascends through the hot-air pipes to rooms above.

The check-draft of a furnace is situated on the smoke-pipe. When this draft is closed—especially on an "ordinary" furnace—heat particles can escape up chimney. When check-draft is opened the incoming cold air from the cellar drives all heat particles back into furnace proper. If the grates and fire-pot of furnace are not constructed properly, there's a clogging and gathering of ashes, and fire does not burn up readily. If no provision is made for gas escape, the check-draft must be left closed indefinitely—a waste of coal.

There is no waste of coal in "Sunshine" Furnace. No clogging can take place in the 4-piece grate, no ashes can gather on the straight fire-pot walls, and the Automatic Gas Damper makes every provision for the escape of gas; consequently, check-draft can be opened shortly after cooling and all heat-energy saved for radiation.

FISHERY LICENSES

Test Case Involving Provincial Jurisdiction is Adjudged at New Westminster

New Westminster, July 20.—Little progress was made on Saturday in the case against John Kendall for fishing without a provincial license, the test case which will probably determine the control of the fresh water fisheries of the coast. An adjournment was made till tomorrow week.

Kendall was found by Inspector North with only a Dominion license, and declined to be bound by provincial laws. Robert Cassidy, K.C., instructed by the attorney-general, appeared for the provincial government, and W. J. Whiteside for defendant. A. Wheeler represented the Dominion government. Among those in court were J. P. Babcock, provincial inspector of fisheries; Provincial Local Inspector Sam North and Inspector C. B. Sward of the federal authority. Mr. Whiteside asked for an adjournment, and pointed out that the dispute had been going on for years. Mr. Wheeler also supported the application.

Mr. Cassidy admitted that the case was practically reduced to a constitutional one, and an adjournment was then granted by the magistrate, Capt. Pittendrigh.

Fine Suits at Small Cost

Regular $10.00 to $18.00 Suits. Wednesday $6.75

Considering the wonderful values that we have offered this season in Men's Suits, it would seem almost impossible to beat the bargains previously offered. However, this offering of suits for Wednesday far exceeds all previous offers this season, not forgetting how good some of them have been. We will prove to all who look at these suits on Wednesday that they are the best that we have ever offered at this price. Perhaps you will think that these suits are inferior in style or quality, on account of the extremely low price. Don't make any mistake about that. Don't think that these are cheap suits. They're not, they're good suits at a small price.

It is well known that our Suits are well made and perfect fitting. We carry nothing but garments that will give the most perfect satisfaction. That is the reason why the Men's Clothing Section is growing so rapidly. These suits are made up in a good assortment of fancy tweeds and worsteds, in light, medium and dark colors. The styles are both two and three-piece, single and double breasted effects and finished in harmony with the very latest ideas, that are used on perfectly tailored garments. These suits will be found to be perfect fitting and in appearance equal to any custom made garments, and the price is ridiculously low for suits having the merit these have.
